

MARBRITE
THE VOCUE IN COLOURED GLASS
Marbrite is a recent discovery used in the decoration of walls, in place of tiling.
The effects produced are extremely pleasant, it being possible to blend a wide range of beautiful colours.
By using Marbrite, panels can be made to represent jade, or bathrooms transformed by means of the exquisite colours available.

MYSTERIOUS KILLINGS ADD TO GERMAN CHAOS

TENTH DAY OF HEAT WAVE

WARM TIME FOR SHANGHAI

ALL RECORDS BROKEN

Shanghai, July 5.
Shanghai continues to swelter under a blistering sun, and although an occasional cool breeze has given some respite, conditions quickly revert to heat wave discomfort.

Nothing like it has occurred before in Shanghai for sixty years.

Since June 25—that is to say for ten consecutive days—the average maximum daily temperature has been 101.31° Fahrenheit: something like a heat wave!

Such conditions have had no parallel since observations were established in the area in 1874.

SEVEN FOREIGN DEATHS.

A strong breeze sprang up this morning temporarily to relieve the general discomfort, but there is still no sign of rain, for which Chinese farmers are daily invoking the gods.

Heatstroke deaths now include seven foreigners, the latest being Pte. Murrell of the 2nd Bn. Worcestershire Regiment.—Reuter.

Quite Satisfied

MR. CHAMBERLAIN ON MONEY

London, July 4.
Mr. Neville Chamberlain, during a debate in the House of Commons on monetary policy, declined to accede to suggestions that a committee should be set up to make a new enquiry into the subject.

He said: "We have as sound a banking system as we have ever had before. We have cheap capital. We have general confidence in finance and we have a stable exchange."

"Under these circumstances I shall not set up a new enquiry to investigate new experiments when we have secured so much success under our present policy.—British Wireless."

CHILEAN RED OUTBREAK

LABOUR DELEGATES ARRESTED

Santiago de Chile, July 4.
As a sequel to the outbreak of murder, pillage and arson by the Agrarian Communists in South Chile, all 350 delegates to the Convention of the Chilean Labour Federation here have been arrested, after an order dissolving the Federation on the ground that the Convention is subversive of the national interests.—Reuter.

GERMAN DEBT CONCESSION

U.S. TO DEMAND EQUAL TREATMENT

Washington, July 4.
It is authoritatively stated in Administration circles that the United States will positively demand that American holders of German bonds be given as favourable treatment as has been accorded to British holders under the agreement signed in London yesterday.—Reuter.

Madame Curie, the famous radiologist and joint discoverer of radium, whose death occurred yesterday.

NEW GAS-BOMBS FOR RIOTERS

NATIONAL GUARD STANDING BY

San Francisco, July 4.
In the highly-charged atmosphere following the fighting of yesterday, strong measures are being taken by the authorities to prevent a recrudescence.

It is feared, however, that further violence will result from the longshoremen's refusal to accept the employers' terms and the action of the Industrial Association in attempting forcibly to keep the port open.

In view of the seriousness of yesterday's waterfront battle, the National Guard has been mobilised and ordered to stand by ready for riot duty.

The National Guardsmen are now being armed with a new type of gas, causing acute vomiting. Governor Merriman has issued a warning to the strikers, declaring that he is ready to act immediately to protect State property.

In the meantime, President Roosevelt's Labour Dispute Board, whose efforts so far have proved vain, have called another hurried meeting in an effort to settle the conflict by arbitration.—Reuter.

FRENCH FRIENDSHIP WITH SOVIET

Britain's Sympathy and Aid Sought

London, July 4.
The question of Franco-Soviet relations is expected to be given prominence in talks between Sir John Simon and M. Barthou which are beginning on Monday.
It is understood that M. Barthou desires to obtain British sympathy in the Franco-Soviet rapprochement and British help in allaying German misgivings about the development.—Reuter.

SILVER DROPS IN LONDON

BUT LOCAL DOLLAR STEADY

For the second day in succession, silver prices have declined in London, the rates being 20.11/16 spot and 20.13/16 forward. This represents a drop of 1/8th compared with yesterday. The market was quietly steady.
Despite the decline, the Hongkong dollar remains unchanged at 1s. 5 3/4d, and the market locally is quite steady.
There are no silver quotations from the United States, on account of the National Holiday there yesterday.

UGLY RUMOURS IN BERLIN

"HITLER BETRAYAL"

BERLIN, JULY 5.

SMOLDERING RESENTMENT AMONG THE STORM TROOPERS FOLLOWING THE SUMMARY EXECUTION OF THEIR LEADERS HAS NOT SHOWN ANY DEFINITE SIGN YET OF FLAMING UP INTO ACTIVE REVOLT AGAINST HITLER, WHO IS DENOUNCED AS A TRAITOR TO THE NAZIS: THERE IS HOWEVER CLEAR INDICATION OF A VIOLENT SWING TO THE LEFT AND HOSTILITY TO THE LEADER.

The whole of the country is seething with disquiet. Rumours are thick. It is openly stated that scores have been shot in addition to the forty-six admitted executions.

A grim belief exceeds that many old scores have been paid off under cover of the chaos provided by the developments.

Bavaria was alive with reports of mysterious killings last night. It is definitely known that Herr Beck, Director of the Foreign Students' Association, was killed in his private residence last night and it is also reported that the bodies of a number of very prominent Munich citizens were found on the moors near Dauchau, where they had been taken and shot.

The victims of this affair include the former Bavarian Premier, Dr. Kahr, and an officer of the Reichswehr, Lieut. Scheringer.

NAZI OFFICIAL RETICENCE

The list of those who were executed by Hitler's orders during the week-end is still being withheld by the Government, and it is now felt that it may possibly never be published.

Apparently, the Hitlerites desire to spare the country fresh shocks, after the news of the shooting of Captain Roehm and of General von Schleicher, and the Storm Troop leaders.

RETICENCE AND RUMOURS.

The official reticence is encouraging the spread of rumours, one of which, for example, declares that the real number of deaths exceeds one hundred and fifty.

Such figures are pure guesswork, but it is widely suggested that a number of private animosities have been settled in the hope that a few extra shootings would pass unnoticed among the general executions.

In any event, it seems exceedingly doubtful whether Herr Hitler can stop his death-roll at the last official figure, 46.

RUTHLESS HUNT.

A ruthless search is now proceeding for signs of graft and treason throughout Germany.

Trusted officials loyal to Herr Hitler are closely inspecting all files and account books in the offices of the Storm Troops, while the frontier railway stations, the border mountain passes and all ports are being watched incessantly for fugitive rebel Storm Troop leaders who may be trying to escape the drastic purge of the Brown Shirt Army.

BLACK BODYGUARD.

The black-uniformed Nazi S. S. troops, generally known as the Black Bodyguard, picked for their loyalty to the Party are exceeding by hostile to the Brown Shirt Troops, many of which are apparently swinging violently to the Left.

It may be noted that even before the events of this week, it was widely stated that at least one third of the total of 2,500,000 Storm Troopers were definitely of Communist sympathies.—Reuter.

HITLER PACT WITH CONSERVATIVES

Von Papen To Remain Vice-Chancellor

Berlin, July 4.
Captain von Papen is to remain as Vice-Chancellor in the Cabinet. The announcement has caused widespread surprise. It is presumed to be one of the direct results of Hitler's interview yesterday with President Hindenburg, and it is believed to be the outcome of a Hitler Pact with the Conservatives.—Reuter.

EARLIER MIXTURES.

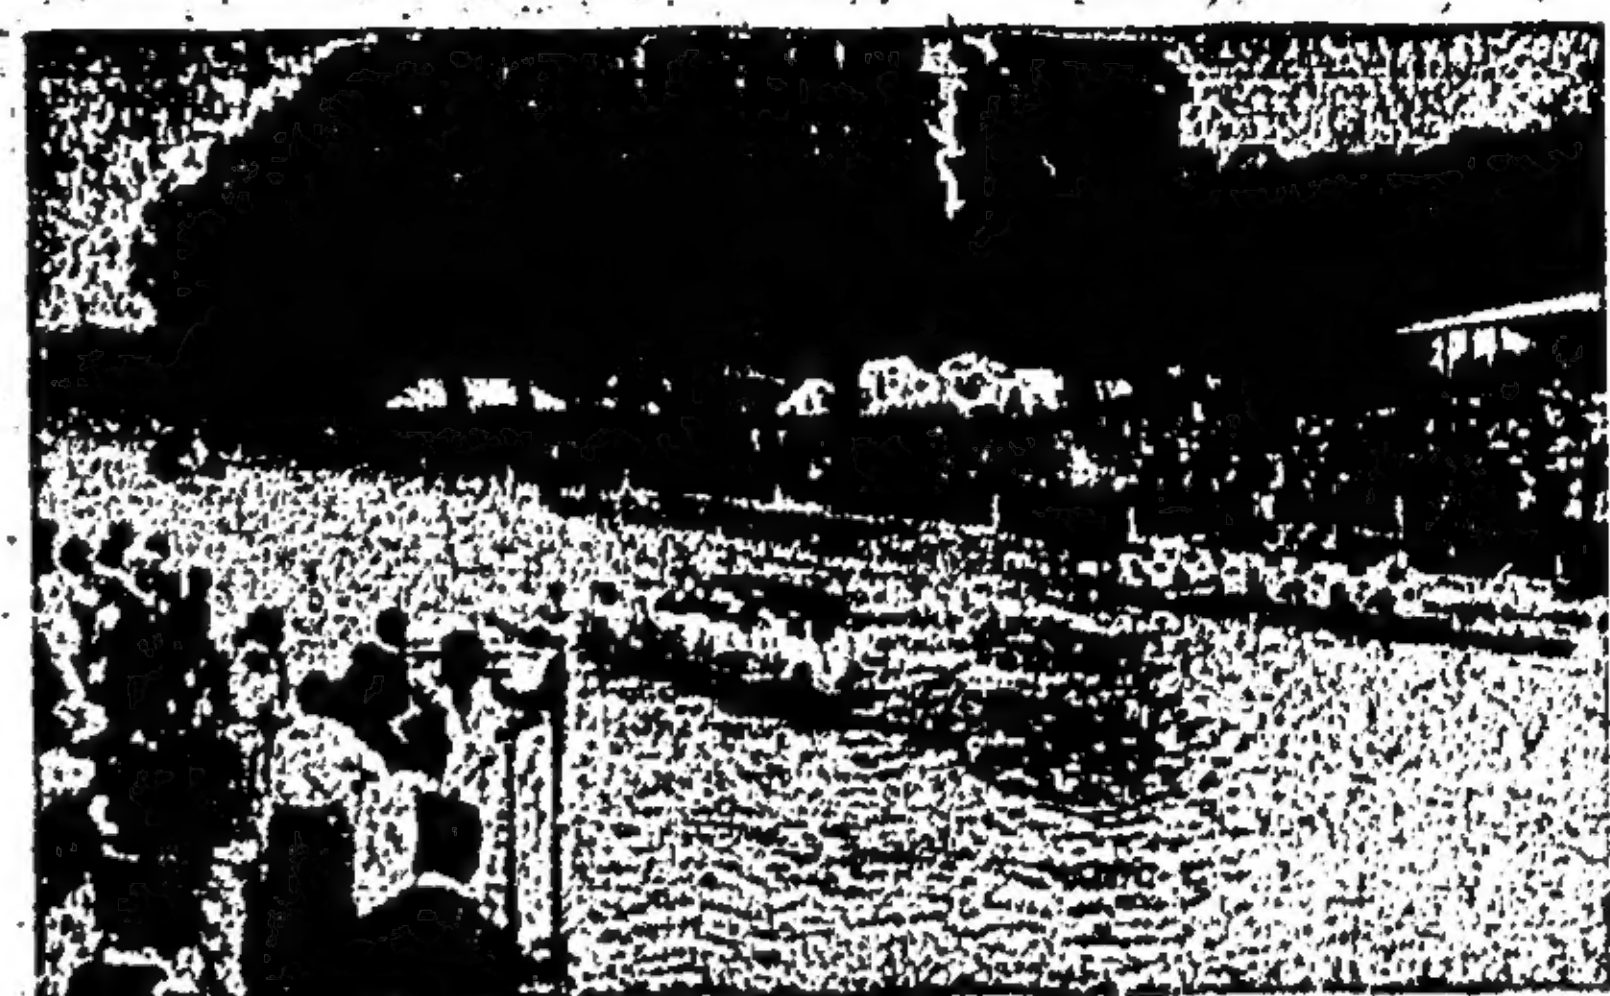

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1921. Received July 5, 9.51 a.m.)

It is officially announced that von Papen remains as Vice-Chancellor. His resignation was declined.

It was previously reported that President Hindenburg had agreed to accept the resignation but had asked von Papen to become German Commissioner in the Saar Region. It was also stated earlier that von Papen might be expected to retain the Vice-Chancellorship for another week, after which if he left the Cabinet, the position of Vice-Chancellor might be abolished as a permanent post.—United Press.

POLICING RIGHTS AT HONGKONG

Shanghai, July 5.
Chinese reports state that the Japanese residents at Hongkong have written to the Shanghai Municipal Council demanding the surrender of policing rights at Hongkong to the Japanese on the plea of dominating Japanese interests there.—Central News.

A close finish at Henley. The world's most famous rowing regatta opened at Henley yesterday in glorious weather.

PRISON SPORTS TRAGEDY

Welfare Island Casualties

New York, July 4.
Two inmates of Welfare Island prison (of recent scandal notoriety) were killed and forty others were injured in the collapse of a grandstand from which they were watching a baseball game between teams of prisoners.—Reuter.

NOT GUILTY

TOM MANN AND POLLITT ACQUITTED

ALLEGED SEDITION SPEECHES

London, July 4.
The seventy-eight-year-old Labour leader, Mr. Tom Mann, and the well-known Communist organiser, Harry Pollitt, were acquitted at Glamorgan Assizes to-day on a charge of making seditious speeches.

It was alleged that the offences occurred in February shortly before the so-called Hunger Marches from the Provinces and Scotland converged upon London for their demonstration in Hyde Park.

Mann and Pollitt were arrested in London on the day before the Marchers were due to arrive.

It was widely felt at that time that the action was intended principally to be preventive in nature, speeches made at Glamorgan more than a week previously being used against them to justify the arrests and prevent their participation in the Hyde Park demonstration.—Reuter.

AIR VICTIM'S FUNERAL

PRINCE OF WALES REPRESENTED

London, July 4.
The Prince of Wales, who was present at the funeral of Lord Collett, son of the Lord Mayor of London, met his death during the forced landing of a bomber aeroplane, in which he was acting as observer, service, which was conducted with full military honours at St. Paul's Cathedral.—British Wireless.

GERMANY TO PAY

DEBT AGREEMENT WITH BRITAIN

FULL INTEREST ON REPARATION LOANS

London, July 4.
The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, announced in the House of Commons that an agreement regarding the German debt question was signed this afternoon. A White Paper containing its terms was published this evening.

The agreement covers a period of six months, as from 1st July, 1934, and it provides that during this period the German Government will provide sterling funds at the Bank of England for the purchase, at full nominal value, of all coupons under the Dawes and Young loans. This applies to coupons in beneficial ownership of British owners on 15th June, 1934.

NO DISCRIMINATION.
As regards other medium and long term debts, the agreement provides that the terms of the offer (Continued on Page 7.)

Edmonton Scandal

JURY IGNORED ACTIONS DISMISSED

Edmonton, Alberta, July 4.
Ignoring the Supreme Court jury's verdict, with which he expressed complete disagreement, the acting Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Ives, to-day fled a written judgment in the McMillan v. Brownlee case. Mr. Justice Ives dismissed Miss Vivian McMillan's action against the Prime Minister of the State. (The jury awarded her $10,000 for seduction.)

He also dismissed Mr. Brownlee's conspiracy claim against the girl.—United Press.

It is now stated that the casualties in the Welfare Island grandstand collapse were three killed and 66 injured.—Reuter.

BRILLIANT HENLEY

RECORD REGATTA CROWD

OPENING DAY SUCCESSES

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1921. Received July 5, 1.41 a.m.)

London, July 4.

Henley Regatta opened to-day in the most glorious weather since the War, bringing a record crowd in bright holiday garb to the famous reach.

Good racing was witnessed, but general surprise was caused by the absence of any record-breaking performances, so which the slow stream as the result of the long drought should have been a decidedly favourable factor.

It is considered certain that when some of the eliminations have been completed that many records will go by the board. It is supposed that the fact that there were few really close races to-day and no heats in the Grand Challenge Cup offers the explanation for lack of record times to-day.

AMERICAN SUCCESSES

American challengers scored popular victories.

One Yale University defeated First Trinity, Cambridge, in the first round of the Thames Cup, and another Yale University crew beat the Molesey Boat Club in the first round of the Wyfold Cup.

Another successful American crew, from the Tabor Academy, Massachusetts, defeated the Maidenhead Rowing Club in the Thames Cup, thus providing an all-American heat, Yale versus Tabor in the second round tomorrow.

U.S. HOLDER DEFEATED.

An exception to the successes of the Americans also occurred in the Thames Cup.

This was the surprise of the day, when the Kent School, Connecticut, holders of the Cup, were beaten by two-thirds of a length by a hard-rowing Quintin Club crew.

The Diamond Sculls heats furnished some interesting races. The four principal foreign competitors, Ruthford (Princeton University, U.S.A.), Bugbee (Princeton U.S.A.), Buhtz (Germany) and Zavral (Czechoslovakia) all scored comfortable victories.

SCHOOL VICTORIES.

Eton College and Shrewsbury were warmly applauded for their performances in vanquishing two Cambridge college crews. It was notable, however, that Cambridge crews were much more successful than those of Oxford.—Reuter Special.

GANGE CELEBRITIES

Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese Minister to France, Mr. Victor Hoo, Minister to Switzerland, Mr. Wang Chung-hui, and Dr. Wu Lih-chung, arrived in Hongkong this morning from Europe aboard the Gange.

CHAPTER XLIII

Mrs. Pettigill thought she would just run over and see how those Morell children were getting along, now that their mother and father were away. Wasn't it just wonderful the way Harvey Morell had recovered after that terrible accident? It would have been a great loss to the family and he had had a close call, a very close call indeed, said Mrs. Pettigill, sighing and wiping her eyes. Well, the Lord had been good to them; and now Harvey and Louise had gone off to the mountains and there was Gypsy, looking rather peaked (but that was to be expected; that big child of hers was quite a care), over in the house, looking after the twins, with Clytie's help.

It was a hot day. Hot and still, with big, fat, sleepy clouds sailing in a high blue sky. But not hot enough to deter Mrs. Pettigill from making a pie before she put on a fresh lavender dill and brushed her iron gray hair into its customary neat waves. She knew Herbert and Beatrice loved pie.

The baby was parked in his carriage in the side yard under the big black blot of shade thrown by the old sugar maple. A glare of sunshine lay all over the rest of the place and most of the shades in the house were drawn, too. Well, here's his heart, said Mrs. Pettigill, smiling and clucking at the sweet lamb. Did he love his old Auntie Pettigill and was he a love of a child? He was!

Nobody seemed to be about, so Mrs. Pettigill went up on the porch and rang the bell. Through the screen door she could see approvingly that everything was in good order. Clytie came rumbling through from the kitchen regions after a moment's wait. She showed her teeth and said Miss Gypsy was lying down and she's just call her.

"She not well?" Mrs. Pettigill wanted to know.

"Oh, she's just a mite peaked," Clytie told her. "She not feeling so awful good this afternoon. Guess maybe it's the heat."

They both nodded solemnly over this. This heat was enough to lay anybody low—except, of course, themselves. Whatever the weather, Clytie scrubbed and baked and retorted. Mrs. Pettigill did the same, varying the routine with trips to the Ladies' Aid and missionary suppers on the church lawn. It wasn't to be expected that young folks would have their stamina.

Clytie refrained from expressing her own private opinion that Miss Gypsy had something on her mind, that she was fussing to herself about something. She had said, on arriving, that Mr. Weaver was out of town on business. But Clytie didn't take too much stock in this, since she knew the ways of men. Although she would say for Miss Tom he seemed a very nice gentleman and always had.

Mrs. Pettigill sat in one of the wicker chairs on the porch, fanning herself and after a bit Gypsy appeared in a filmy pink frock Mrs. Pettigill didn't remember having seen before.

"Why, child, you're right thin!" she said before she had thought twice about it. She was sorry the minute the words popped out because it wasn't tactful. Gypsy was more than thin. She was hollow-eyed. She looked as if she'd had sleepless nights. Why, land's sakes, Mrs. Pettigill murmured inwardly, she looks as though she'd been pulled through a knothole.

They chatted for a while but, in spite of her most valiant efforts, Mrs. Pettigill discovered the conversation was flagging. Gypsy seemed utterly despondent. The only time she brightened at all was when the visitor spoke of her father's recovery.

"That's it," Mrs. Pettigill told herself as she went down the steps. "She took his illness too much to heart. She's fagged out. Why, that child's not well."

After she had left Gypsy sat for a long time, relaxed in the low chair, staring at the pattern the maple branches threw across the porch. Clytie came out after a bit and plumped up pillows and wanted to know if Gypsy would like a glass of milk. Gypsy said listlessly that she thought not; when it got cooler she was going to walk down the street with David to the drugstore.

She didn't acknowledge, even to herself, what she wanted to do there. She could see, in her mind's eye, the little telephone booth at the end of the shop, hidden by the jutting cosmetic counter and the lending library shelves. She wanted to call a certain downtown number.

At home someone would be sure to hear. It was 10 days now since Tom's tall figure had slung itself out of the apartment door. Ten aching, dreadful days. At first she had been angry, resentful, bitter; now she only knew that all she wanted in the world was the sight of him, the sound of his deep, pleasant voice and the touch of his hand on hers. What had they quarrelled about? What did it all mean? Why, there was nothing in the whole world so important as their life together. To throw it away like this, without a look behind, without a gesture of regret—it was unthinkable!

And yesterday, to crown her trouble, Derek, who had been drifting toward the dark shadows ever since that night of the fall, had died. Some enterprising and suspicious reporter had caught wind of the true state of affairs. The morning's newspaper had carried a story full of veiled insinuations. Gypsy's name had not been mentioned but it was only a question of time, she thought drearily, before the whole miserable story would come out. Then Sue would know where Hunt had been that night. Sue, whose fragile, dawning happiness in Hunt's new devotion was a lovely thing to watch!

When first she had read of Derek's death, Gypsy's heart had ached and her tears had fallen. The affair seemed pitiable beyond belief and tragically sad. But now she had come to see that perhaps Derek, in leaving life, had justified himself. He had refused to make a compromise. He had loved Lila truly and deeply. Whether she would be able to build a new happiness on the ashes of his dead love remained to be seen.

"What a punishment for her," Gypsy had murmured in pity. She

Hunt had stopped for a moment the night before. He had said, in a low tone, "Rotten luck for him! Rotten luck for us all!" Gypsy had looked at him quickly and proudly. "You can deny you were there if your name comes into it. No one need know."

"He had the grace to be ashamed. What about you?"

"It doesn't matter about me."

Plainly he didn't want Sue to know he had attended Lila's funeral party, no matter how innocent his part in the night's affairs might have been. Sue had confided to Gypsy only Monday that Hunt was his old, sweet self to her these days.

"I think something happened—he's utterly changed," Sue had said softly. "He says he never knew anyone so—so untouched and incorruptible as I am. Did you ever?" And Sue's sweet laughter had rung out. Gypsy's lips had twisted themselves into a smile, but the implied comparison had stabbed her. Hunt, playing around with a gay crowd, had liked it all well enough until danger threatened. Now he had rushed to the safety and innocence of Sue's single-minded devotion.

"But he'll be a very good husband for her," Gypsy thought wistfully. She wouldn't be calling Tom today, she told herself proudly. If it weren't for this complication caused by Derek's death. Why, only an

Volleys of questions were fired on their arrival in Shanghai at the foreign passengers who were in the s.s. Shantung when she was pirated. This photograph shows Mrs. Robert Learmouth, at the right, answering a few inquiries put to her by a feminine press representative. Mrs. Learmouth is the two-month bride of an officer of the China Navigation Company's staff, and appears to be happy over the safe ending of her adventure.

All foreign passengers in the s.s. Shantung except three discontinued their voyages after the vessels had been pirated. The trio to land in Shanghai were the subjects for many photographers as the Shantung neared shore, and the view here shows all three standing on the promenade deck. At the left is Mrs. Warren, with her child. Next to her is Mrs. Robert Learmouth. Third from the left is a Chinese passenger, also a victim, while at the extreme right is Major Moulson, R.A.M.C.

Recently arrived from Germany to take up the post of Consul-General in Shanghai, Lt.-Col. H. Kriebel was greeted by a mass reception in grounds of the German School, Shanghai. Our picture is a panoramic flash showing sections of the school children, Hitler Youth, Sport Abteilung and other civilians drawn up in parade form. NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Kent Taylor, youthful Paramount find, has his first featured role in Zane Grey's "The Mysterious Rider" which opens to-morrow at the Alhambra. It is a thrilling film, this tale of a desert feud growing out of the construction of Boulder Dam and its tremendous effect upon the heart-strings and pulse-strings of the ranchers of the great South-west, and Kent Taylor faithfully embodies the attributes of other great Western heroes who have preceded him in Zane Grey roles. He enacts the part of Wade Benton, himself a rancher, friend to hundreds of poor families who have settled in this arid area. When the news comes of the President's authorization of the greatest irrigation project of all time, all realize that they are about to become wealthy. The machinations, however, of Harkness (Irving Pichel), a crooked attorney, and Mark King (Berton Churchill), the financier, who seek to evict the ranchers from their homes and appropriate the land for themselves, put Benton in jail and turn his friends against him. The coming of the Mysterious Rider, however, turns the tables on the schemers and encourages the ranchers to fight eviction. A charming love story between Taylor and Dorothy (Lona Andre) runs through the picture. Lona Andre and Gail Patrick two of the cinema's in the famous Panther Woman contest who received contracts from Paramount make their debut in this picture. Both acquit themselves admirably. Warren Hyman, in the role of Jincey Smith, delivers his usual "stunt" characterization in the manner that has won him distinction among the screen's foremost comedians.

"The Way to Love"

The secret is out: Maurice Chevalier sings in his morning bath—sometimes. And when he does, Hollywood song-writers are happy. Leo Robin and Ralph Rainger tell why. They have composed twenty-odd songs for Chevalier, including the tunes for his latest Paramount picture, "The Way to Love", which comes to the King's Theatre on Friday. When Rainger has completed the music to a song and Robin has written the lyrics, Chevalier is invited to their office to hear the interpretation—with Rainger playing and Robin singing. They play the song several times for Chevalier, who goes on his way without comment. But, if Chevalier agrees the next morning with the song in his heart and on his lips—it's "sold". If he's not in the singing mood while performing his morning ablutions, the song isn't what he wants. By this invariable method the artist has selected such songs, hits as "Louise", "My Ideal", "Park in Paris", "Look What I've Got", "One Hour With You", and a score of others. Ann Dvorak plays the leading feminine role with Edward Everett Horton in the contributing comedy in "The Way to Love". Norman Taurog directed.

"My Weakness"

Charles Butterworth and Harry Langdon, famous comedians, have featured roles in "My Weakness", the B. G. DeSylva musical film for Fox, which co-stars Lillian Harvey and Lew Ayres showing at the Oriental Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. "My Weakness" apparently gave strong for comedy, for in addition to Butterworth and Langdon, Sil Silvers, recent comedy star of DeSylva's Broadway musical comedy hit, "Take A Chance", also has a strong role. Miss Harvey's part also will present her as a comedienne, and Ayres is said to have many snappy lines in his role. David Butler directed with DeSylva supervising. Richard Whiting, Leo Robin and DeSylva have collaborated on the songs. All three of them singly and in collaboration have turned out dozens of famous song hits.

"Heritage of the Desert"

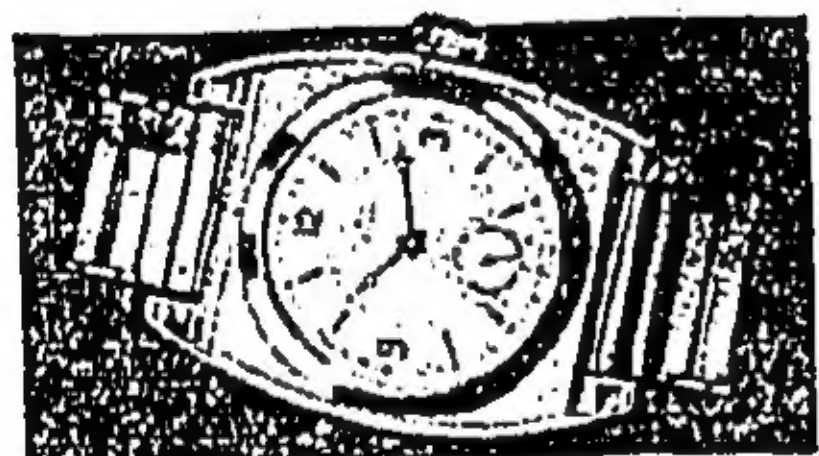

Amid scenes of extraordinary pictorial splendour, Zane Grey's "Heritage of the Desert", an exciting melodrama of the old west, was enacted on the screen of the Alhambra yesterday. No matter what the story may be, a Zane Grey picture always assures its spectators of two major sources of enjoyment: thrilling action and a background of breath-taking beauty. Not an exception to that rule, for its action is paced to keep the audience on the edge of the seats, and its along shots include bronzed expanse of desert and mountains and cloud-flecked skies that can be found only in the far West. These merits in "Heritage of the Desert" possesses in common with every Zane Grey picture. In addition, it tells a believable, gripping story of cattle rustling and two-fisted courage, and serves to introduce a long, rangy good-looking youngster named Randolph Scott, who gives promise of a brilliant future.

"One Sunday Afternoon"

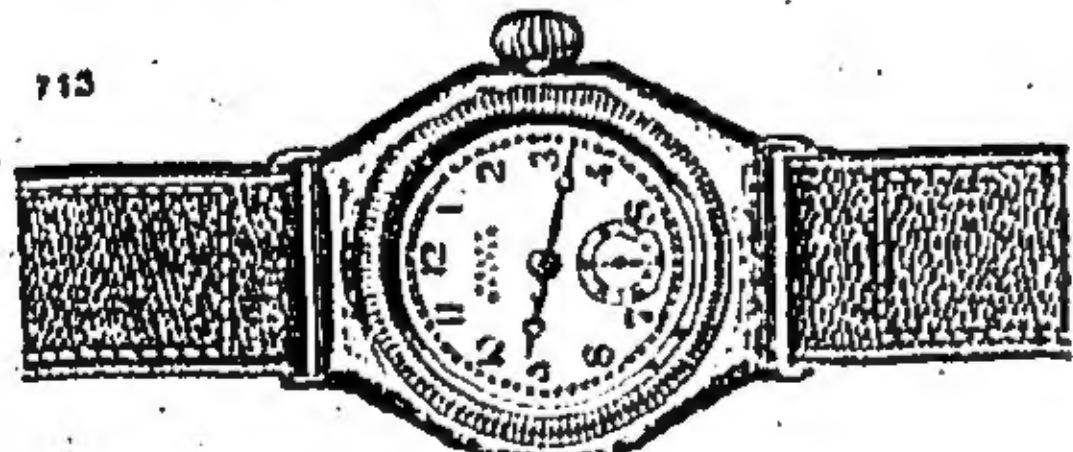

"Every successful actor and actress on the screen possesses a knowledge of drama that is instinctive". "Dramatic instinct is born in a player and can never be acquired". These are the opinions of Stephen Roberts, who directed Paramount's "One Sunday Afternoon", starring Gary Cooper, with Frances Fuller, Fay Wray and Neil Hamilton featured, now showing at the King's Theatre. "Frances Fuller, who plays a leading feminine role in "One Sunday Afternoon", is a splendid example of inborn dramatic instinct. Years on the stage have given her natural finesse that registered strikingly on the screen in her very first performance. Gary Cooper is a natural born actor. He has but to appear natural to give an excellent performance. In "One Sunday Afternoon", he reveals the rare ability to wring a tear out of the audience at almost the time they are convulsed with laughter."

HELPING BRITISH
SHIPPINGQuite wisely, the Government is proceeding cautiously in rendering financial aid to British shipping. For the moment, the assistance is confined to an experimental grant not exceeding two millions sterling, for a period of one year, to owners of tramp vessels. Even this grant is made conditional on the owners formulating a scheme, satisfactory to the Government, so that the money shall not be dissipated in domestic competition between British ships but shall be utilised in securing greater employment of British shipping at the expense of foreign subsidised interests. But in this sphere, as in other branches of the industry, the Government really aims at placing shipping on a better paying basis. Thus the tramp owners are being expected, through their international organisations, to bring pressure to bear upon owners in other countries in the devising of plans tending to adjust tonnage supply to demand. A close reading of Mr. Runciman's statement shows that the Government has a distinct inclination towards the method of scrapping old tonnage and replacing it by a smaller quantity of up-to-date craft, either by modernisation of existing vessels or by new construction. Shipowners, however, are evidently not disposed to enter into such an arrangement, although the Government makes it clear that it is still prepared to co-operate in schemes of this type. Various other proposals have been under consideration, some of an inter-Imperial character, and it is indicated that if the present measures fail in their object, it may yet be necessary to take further action. Primarily, of course, shipping must depend for its prosperity on increased trade, but it is essential, at a time when trade is still restricted and when competition by subsidised interests is so intense, that something be done to preserve the British industry from further decline. It is for this reason that the Government has now come forward with offers of financial aid. In general world interests, it would be infinitely preferable if subsidies of all kinds could be abolished, for precisely the same reason that a lowering and

NOTES OF THE DAY

HITLER'S POSITION

It is quite obvious now that the final act of the German drama was not concluded with Hitler's swoop upon those threatening to put obstacles in his way. Almost as clear, too, is it that the Nazi Leader has sacrificed his whole cause to expediency. Appearances may suggest that he has strengthened his position, but the simple fact remains that to preserve himself in power now he must rely upon force and over more force—with the ultimate fate of all tyrants in store. He may even cease to be the real leader, while remaining the figurehead. It will suit the book of his sponsors and assistants, for as long as it suits them, to allow Hitler the "credit" for all eventualities.

PERSONAL TRAGEDY

The complete answer to the conundrum of the so-called Second Revolution has not been furnished. It probably waits upon further events. Hitler is supposed to have committed the strangest folies, making enemies among the Monarchists as well as among the "Faithful." That is the personal tragedy of Hitler, if the truth has been told. It is fair to say that fifty per cent. of the German people trusted and believed in Hitler implicitly until this last week-end. Another forty per cent.
were prepared to keep an open mind and give him a chance, to translate his promises into performance. His personal away was such that the winning over to his way of thinking of the majority of the Storm Troop leaders who did not have been difficult had he chosen that way. The evidence, however, such as it is, is damning. Hitler's appears to have been the first intrigue; the plot of the Roehms and the Ernsts, a counter-intrigue. They felt they were being betrayed. Even if this does not represent the exact truth, this much is certain, the un-questioning faith of many of the German people in Hitler has been destroyed, beyond hope of restoration.

TEST TROUBLES

England's Test Selectors are having more trouble than enough.
Clark, on whom they rested their hopes for fast bowling at Manchester, is now among the casualties and will be unable to turn out. The situation is almost desperate; a committee at their wits' end to find a capable fast bowler; and the finest speed trundler in the country performing splendidly for his county, beyond their reach. Not a word of criticism can be levelled against Larwood. There is an incontrovertible argument to support his refusal to play. It is a well understood principle that a bowler, through his captain, has the most important say in the placing of the field. Sir Stanley Jackson, when informing the Press that Larwood would be invited to play for England, made it clear, in carefully chosen words, that Larwood would be conceded fewer liberties in this matter than is customary. Other bowlers may be as much as they please about the field, but not Larwood. The position was obviously untenable, whether Larwood had thought of bowling leg-theory or not.

YOUTH IN THE CABINET

Mr. Oliver Stanley's promotion to Cabinet rank at the age of 37 marks one of the most spectacular rises to Parliamentary eminence of modern times. Less than three years have elapsed since he was given his first Government post, that of Under-Secretary at the Home Office in August, 1931. In February last year, he was appointed Minister of Transport; today, he is Minister of Labour and a Privy Counsellor, widely esteemed as an administrator of exceptional ability. He should prove a useful ally in Cabinet councils to Mr. Walter Elliot, the only other member who has not yet passed his fiftieth birthday, with whom he has close affiliations in outlook upon national and world problems.
Clear-headed and sound, both are disciples of the newer Conservative school of statescraft, generally dubbed the Social-State wing of the Tory Party.eventual abolition of tariffs would be of universal benefit.
The British Government realises that point, but it is also convinced that the realities of the situation at the moment call for other than ideal measures, both in the one sphere and the other.
There can, however, be no question of making unconditional grants to the shipping; the industry has to do its part in the direction of sound schemes of reorganisation. Meanwhile, it is gratifying to learn that the
P. and O. Company is alive to future needs and is taking steps to meet competition by an extensive building programme.BRITISH NAVY
IN FAR EAST

By Lieut.-Commander KENNETH EDWARDS

THE recently announced proposal that preliminary talks should be conducted between the three great Naval Powers has drawn attention to the imminence of the Naval Conference of next year.
Beyond the suggestion that preliminary talks should take place, this country has remained silent;
but the frequency with which statements are made by official spokesmen in Japan and the United States, and the rapidly with which these are always countered from the opposite side of the Pacific Ocean, leave no doubt that it will be upon the Pacific that the conference will either float or founder.The silence which the British Empire has hitherto displayed by no means betokens lack of interest in this question of the Pacific.
The Pacific is one of the major preoccupations of the British Empire from the defensive point of view, for it not only forms a vast and largely unprotected frontier, but it is dotted with outposts, which are to all intents and purposes defenceless. To the lay mind these outposts may seem of singularly little importance, but many of them are cable and wireless centres which are vital to the vast network of communications with which the Empire is knit.The protection of these and the whole vast eastern frontier of the Empire is at present in the hands of the China Squadron, consisting of five cruisers, a destroyer fleet, a double flotilla of submarines, and an aircraft carrier.
There are also the Royal Australian Navy, consisting of two modern and two old cruisers, a half flotilla of destroyers and a small seaplane carrier; and the New Zealand Division consisting of two old cruisers.For bases this fleet has Hongkong, Sydney, and Auckland, of which only Hongkong can be termed a fortified naval base.
There is—or will be when finished —the Singapore base, but that will form a base for support rather than for cruisers and other craft employed on the protection of Australia, New Zealand, and the distant islands.It will be seen that the commitments of the British Navy in the Pacific are enormous. What of those of the other major Naval Powers?Japan is essentially a Pacific Power. Moreover, she is an island nation, dependent to a very large extent upon seaborne trade for the provision of foodstuffs and raw materials for her industry. But the trade routes in the Pacific which are vital to Japan are comparatively short. They are those to Korea, Manchukuo and the China coast, to Australia and to the west through the Singapore Straits. These trade routes are not very widely dispersed, and the length of the longest of them is but a quarter of the watery eastern frontier of the British Empire. Moreover, the very cen-tralisation of her forces reduces the total force necessary for adequate protection.And what of the naval commitments of the United States in the Pacific? Colonially, they are confined to the Philippine Islands, Hawaii, Guam and a few otherislands of very secondary importance. So far as the protection of trade is concerned, the United States certainly has a large trade with China, but this trade is by no means vital to her existence. Beyond that, American naval commitments are confined to the protection of her coasts.America has for many years maintained an Asiatic Squadron based on Manila. This squadron has often been severely criticised by American naval opinion; the criticism being based on the argument that it could not be maintained in the event of war, and would certainly be defeated in detail before support could arrive. This is no less than the truth. Manila is some 7,000 miles from the American coast and about 5,000 miles from Hawaii, the great American naval base in mid-Pacific. But it is not only sheer distance which precludes the possibility of giving support to the Asiatic Squadron in time of war. A glance at the map reveals the fact that the line of communication between the Philippines and America or Hawaii passes within easy striking distance of Japan.For these reasons the withdrawal of the Asiatic Squadron has been repeatedly urged. And it is being urged again, in view of the decision to grant independence to the Philippines. With the independence of the Philippines looming ahead, there can be no adequate reason for the maintenance of the Asiatic Squadron of the United States Navy. And with its withdrawal the United States naval commitments in the Pacific will at once be enormously reduced. They would, in fact, be confined to the holding of Hawaii and to defence of the American coast, if one excepts the guarding of a non-vital trade route which it would be quite impossible to protect in the event of hostilities with Japan.But Mr. Swanson, Secretary to the United States Navy, has announced that if Japan sought naval parity, America would have to consider extending her naval bases in the Pacific. It is difficult to see what bases Mr. Swanson has in mind. Hawaii is already a base of immense strength. Manila, as we have seen, untenable in the event of war. There remains Guam, which is already a minor naval base. But this island is nearly four thousand miles from Hawaii and therefore out of practicable supporting distance.
Certainly there are the bases on the Pacific Coast of the United States and the western approaches to the Panama Canal.These might be extended and their fortifications strengthened—but against what? So long as Hawaii can be held and accommodate a covering fleet it would be madness for operations to be contemplated against the American coast. And even if we discount Hawaii, such operations could hardly be undertaken with any great prospect of success, on account of the great distances involved and the all-important fact that any raiding squadron or invading force must safeguard its communications, and be certain of

The Very Idea!

IT'S A GIRAFFE!

By George
NATURE STUDIES.(Extracts from Little Ada's Exercise Book).THE giraffe is found only in Africa, Whipsnade and Camden Town which is a two-penny bus ride from our old home unless you sit in the back seats when it is a penny (unless you nod to the conductor when he thinks you've got a season ticket but teacher says this is not a nice thing to do and smacked Tommy Huggins recently for doing it).The giraffe is chiefly famous for its neck which is long and elegant but makes you sick when you look at it too long. Teacher says we should all have long graceful necks and gives us special exercises to grow long necks. My neck is very long but not so long as a giraffe's.Being long and thin the giraffe can often disguise itself as a telephone post but as the poor creature is dumb this deception could not be practised twice. The giraffe has adapted itself to its high altitude by learning to eat trees but it is not a tree climbing bird and does not lay eggs.The giraffe has four legs apart from its neck and being unable to speak it conveys its meaning to its mate with dainty little kicks or by writing in word pictures on the sand.The giraffe can easily be distinguished from the walrus by the shape of its head.The origin of the giraffe is traced back to the first giraffe who aimed too high in life and was left in the air.Would you believe it—we had another letter from Bane-Awford to-day and the wife dealt with it.Dear Sir, (they began) We are grateful for your letter to hand in which you had the kindness to express appreciation of our business and speak feelingly of that probity and integrity which it has always been our aim to maintain at a high standard.Whilst cordially reciprocating these sentiments we would also take the opportunity of enquiring about your health and your little doggie, Beepo, who visited our hardware department yesterday and for a very small reason was removed rather hastily by a coolie.
We trust you will accept our explanation of this unhappy incident that the coolie was not aware that the little dog belonged to a customer.May we take the opportunity in passing to include a statement of your account for $200 and trust that our pleasant relations will be further cemented by a prompt settlement?Thanking you in anticipation,
Yrs. Fily,
Bane Awford.To which with Beepo's assistance our wife had little difficulty in replying.Dear Bane Awford.—As we sit at our desk compiling this reply to your kind note this morning, Beepo sits, alive and well, beside us and barks his deep regret for his misbehaviour in your hardware department.He knows that he is not allowed to enter shops without us but his mother was born in a hardware department and Beepo seems to have inherited a passion for such places. (Haven't you, Beepo?
You little sweet, tweet, weel!)We appreciate your courtesy in returning little Beepo to the house and enclose herewith a cheque for $10 on account until we have had time to go into the account. It is such a long time since we bought some of the articles mentioned in the bill that we have really forgotten whether we bought them or had them on approval.However we shall be wanting some more things soon and we can then go over the account and

DOMINION
LOANSSAFEGUARDING OF STOCKHOLDERSPOWERS OF U.K.
GOVERNMENT

London, July 4.
An important statement was made in the House of Commons by Mr. Neville Chamberlain on the subject of the Colonial Stock Act (1900) Declaration. Bill recently passed in the Parliament of the Union of South Africa.

This, he said, was the result of an agreement between His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom and the Union. Last autumn, the Union Government informed us that they proposed to repeal the section of the South Africa Act, 1909, which provided for the exercise of powers of disallowance in the action of Union legislation. The action was in accordance with the constitutional developments of the last few years.

DISALLOWANCE PROVISIO.

But one of the conditions prescribed by the Treasury under the Colonial Stock Act, 1909, with which every Dominion or Colonial Government must comply in order to obtain trustee status in the United Kingdom for their securities, stipulates that the right of disallowance shall be expressly recognised by the borrowing Government in respect of any legislation which appears to the United Kingdom Government to alter any of the provisions affecting the stock to the injury of the stockholder, or to involve departure from the original contract in regard to the stock.

The Union Government, therefore, realising that when the power of disallowance ceased, these conditions would, in the absence of an express stipulation, become nugatory, and, desiring to maintain in the fullest possible degree the rights of holders of their stocks, approached the United Kingdom Government with a view to devising an alternative form of safeguard.

NEW STIPULATION.

As the result of discussion, it was agreed that the Union Government should enter into an undertaking with the United Kingdom Government, not confirmed by the Act referred to, and that the new undertaking, which should be accepted by the Treasury, subject to approval of Parliament, as an alternative to the existing stipulation, should be as follows:—"His Majesty's Government in the Dominion has undertaken that legislation which appears to the United Kingdom Government to amend the provisions affecting stock to the injury of stockholders, or to involve departure from the original contract in regard to the stock, shall not be submitted for Royal assent, except after agreement with the United Kingdom Government, and that if attention is drawn to any such legislation as aforesaid after the passing thereof by the Dominion Parliament the Government in the Dominion will take the necessary steps to ensure such amendment as may be requested by the United Kingdom Government."

A CHOICE OF METHOD.

A Bill is being presented to the House of Commons authorising the Treasury to accept an undertaking, in agreed form, from any Dominion Government, which prefers to adopt this as an alternative to the existing stipulation, or which prefers to borrow under the existing Treasury conditions, as many of these Governments do, is at liberty to continue in the existing practice.

Mr. Chamberlain said he was entirely satisfied that the existing rights of stockholders would be safeguarded equally under either condition.—British Wireless.

of the Reichsbank embodied in the communiqué issued on 29th May, 1934, shall apply to all interest, etc., due in respect of investments which on 15th June, 1934, were in the beneficial ownership of British holders, provided that if the German Government should conclude any agreement with any other creditor country under which more favourable terms are accorded to residents in their country in respect of non-Reich loans, it shall be open to British holders to claim corresponding treatment in respect of investments held by them on 15th June, 1934, and should such claim be put forward, the question will be settled by agreement between the two countries on a basis of non-discrimination, taking account of all circumstances, including any advantages which Germany receives from other advantages compared with any advantages which Germany receives from the United Kingdom.

BRITISH POWERS IN SUSPENSE.

Finally, the agreement provides that the British Government will not, during the period of the agreement, exercise in respect of Germany the powers vested in the Government by the Debts Clearing Offices and Imports Restrictions Act, 1934. The agreement is, of course, without prejudice to standard terms in regard to short-term debts.

Mr. Chamberlain added that in the preamble to the agreement, both Governments affirm their earnest desire that the trade and financial relations between these countries will continue on a non-discriminatory and most friendly basis and that the volume of mutual trade shall be maintained and, as far as possible, increased. In pursuance of this principle, the German Government have informed the British Government that they are prepared to negotiate an agreement for commercial payments similar to those which are or may be in force between Germany and other countries. This matter is dealt with in an exchange of letters contained in the White Paper.

SATISFACTORY SOLUTION.

Concluding, Mr. Chamberlain said:—"It would have been more satisfactory if the German Government could have made an arrangement with all its creditors on the lines of this agreement, but as the German Government is engaged in separate negotiations and with different creditors, we have been forced to take the same line, and I hope the House will agree that, so far as this country is concerned, this agreement is a satisfactory solution."—British Wireless.

CORRESPONDENCE

Consideration for Others

To the Editor,
Hongkong Telegraph.

Sir,—One often hears quite a lot these days about lack of manners and consideration shown by people in Hongkong, but the following will show that there are some charming people amongst us.

With two other fellows, I was "Somewhere on Stubbs Road" yesterday and happened to be standing by my shoddy little car when out of the blue a magnificent limousine, complete with chauffeur in uniform, drew up. A beautifully attired and lovely lady, with a most engaging smile and charming voice, said:—"Have you broken down? May I be of any assistance to you?" Perfectly delightful, Mr. Editor, don't you think?

ONE OF THREE.

Lieut. F. R. L. Mears, of the King's Own Regiment, A.D.C. to H.E. the G.O.C., Major General O. C. Borrett, is proceeding home on H.M.S. Berwick to-morrow. His successor as A.D.C. to the G.O.C. will be Lieut. J. J. Abbott, of the 2nd Battalion the Worcestershire Regiment, who arrived in Hongkong aboard H.M.S. Berwick yesterday from Shanghai.

The engagement is announced between John, elder son of Sir William and Lady Peel, Government House, Hongkong, and Rosemary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Readhead, Great House, Hambleton, Surrey.

A woman, Wong Mei, was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital, yesterday, suffering from burns caused by a bottle of sulphuric acid being accidentally broken.

A Chinese who had been living at 553 Canton Road, died at the Kwong Wah Hospital yesterday after taking a large dose of opium at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Trueman returned to the Colony by the Empress of Russia, as also did the Hon. Mr. C. Gordon Mackie.

The Ben Line s.s. Bonifera is due here from Hongkong via Straits and Manila on Saturday.

LAWN BOWLS.

Craigengower Players' Field Day.

ALL WIN THROUGH.

Yesterday was a sold day for Craigengower Cricket Club representatives, who made a clean sweep of their matches in the Lawn-Bowls Pairs and Singles championship matches.

U. M. Omar and B. W. Bradbury experienced very little difficulty in accounting for G. E. Elliot-Heywood and A. E. Silkestone by 23 shots to eight in the Kowloon Dock Recreation Club green, while their fellow club-mates W. K. Way and A. B. Gomes caused a surprise by eliminating the Police pair, W. McCleod and W. Blair, by 23 shots to 14 on the Taikeo Recreation Club green.

In the singles championship, G. Duncan and J. S. Landolt, both of Craigengower, gained victories over J. M. Jack and H. Overby, to complete their Club's triumph for the afternoon.

The results:

PAIRS CHAMPIONSHIP.

U. M. Omar and B. W. Bradbury beat C. E. Elliot-Heywood and A. E. Silkestone by 23 shots to eight. W. K. Way and A. B. Gomes beat W. McCleod and W. Blair by 23 shots to 14.

The postponed pairs championship match between A. W. Grimmit and F. J. Jones and T. Perkins and E. G. Post will be played on the Club de Recreo green on Tuesday at 5 p.m.

SINGLES CHAMPIONSHIP.

Making his first attempt in championship bowls, A. M. Rumbaba lost to J. K. Sloan by 22 shots to 15 on the Craigengower Cricket Club green, and, although Rumbaba was on a fine form, three times he came in to lay down his shot.

G. Duncan, of the Craigengower Cricket Club, played havoc with J. M. Jack, of the Kowloon Cricket Club, winning by the big margin of 22 shots to five on the Indian Recreation Club green. At the end of the sixth head, Jack was leading by four shots to three, but thereafter Duncan was his master, scoring a four on the 10th head and three on the 11th.

G. Perkins, of the Police Recreation Cricket Club, defeated H. Overby, of the Kowloon Cricket Club, by 23 shots to 19. The match was played on the Police Recreation Club green. Both men played good bowls.

CHANGING POLICY.

NAZIS SWINGING TO THE RIGHT

Berlin, July 4.

The official Nazi policy is expected to tend more and more to the right, following Herr Hitler's realisation of the serious pass to which the business of the country has been taken. Despite the apparent contradictions, this view of affairs is borne out by the execution of Capt. Roehm and other Nazi extremists. While it may be assumed that the Reichswehr would not support the Government without satisfactory assurances that the views of the Junkers and industrialists should be respected, the humiliation to which Capt. von Pape has been subjected is all the more surprising in this light.

Herr Hitler appears to have realised that his followers have blundered in this direction, with the result that von Pape has quit the Cabinet in high dudgeon. The shooting of von Schleicher has left the other generals indifferent, as he was unpopular and regarded as an intriguing self-seeker.

Meanwhile, it is noticeable that none of the Imperial family is in any way involved in the recent happenings, despite various alarmist reports. To-day a new announced, amusingly enough, that Major von Moller, the Crown Prince's aide-de-camp, who was reported shot, feels absolutely comfortable and is working as usual.—Reuter.

SNOWDEN BITTER

ATTACKS PRIME MINISTER IN HOUSE OF LORDS

London, July 4.
Lord Snowden's old-time bitter invective was to-day vented on the head of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald during the debate on the Budget in the House of Lords.

"Particularly in attacking the repeal of the Land Tax did the veteran Labour leader wax reproachfully. In this connection, he said Mr. MacDonald once came to him with tears in his voice and begged him not to resign."

The Government, Lord Snowden said, had discredited every one of its election pledges.

The Tories had learnt that Mr. MacDonald was ready to recant any profession of policy, break any pledge and submit to any humiliation as long as they allow him to call himself Prime Minister, Lord Snowden railed.—Reuter.

That the United States is a self-contained nation without any considerable overseas commitments is an argument which is certain to be large at the Naval Conference in an effort to persuade the United States to accept some relative reduction of her naval strength as compared with other navies, all of which are maintained solely for the protection of overseas interests. Dependence upon overseas trade and colonies should surely be the measure of the strength of the navy required.

And the relation of the commitments of the three great Naval Powers in the Pacific is much the same as it is throughout the world. No other Power can claim more than a fraction of the coast line that the British Empire has to protect, or utter dependence upon seaborne trade, carried over 85,000 miles of trade routes.

CHOPPED DOLLARS

CHINESE COMPLAINT TO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Chinese complaints of a shortage of Hongkong bank notes of small denomination, chiefly $10 and $5, and the refusal of Banks to accept chopped silver dollars were made at the monthly meeting of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. Li Sing-ku, the vice-Chairman, in the absence of Mr. Wong Kwong-tin who was indisposed.

Mr. Chan Woon-tong, a member of the Chamber, lodged a complaint regarding the suffering of the Chinese middle and lower classes through chopped dollars. It was pointed out in the subsequent discussion that the dollars were mostly chopped in Canton, or by firms in the interior of Kwangtung, and there was no good reason why local banks should reject them. One of the members suggested that the banks should withdraw all chopped dollars from circulation.

Concerning the shortage of notes of small denominations, it was pointed out that there has been considerable hoarding of $5 and $10 notes since the recent discovery of forged $500 notes.

Firms in Canton have exchanged quite a number of $500 notes for $10 and $5 notes, which have been hoarded.

The meeting elected a sub-committee of seven members, consisting of Messrs. Tang Shu-kin, Mok Kon-sang, To Jackman, Lo Yam-shuen, Tang Shu-kin, Chiu Chiu-fan and Yu Cheuk-sang to go further into the matter.

The following members were present: Messrs. Tang Shu-kin, Mok Kon-sang, To Jackman, Lo Yam-shuen, Chung Wai-lum, Mok Lin, Chan Chung-chi, Chow Sing-chi, Chau Tung-sang, Chu Pak-tung, Chung Chi-nam, Chiu Chiu-fan, Chan Shu-ai, Yung Koon-mun, Chan Kam-yu, Yu Cheuk-sang, Chow Ngan-ting, and others.

WHAT ARE PLUS FITTINGS

A K plus-fitting shoe has the forepart one fitting wider than the heelpart. Thus, extra room for the toes is provided—a boon this hot weather—yet the heels are clasped snugly. Quite a simple idea, but an outstanding success.

We stock K plus-fitting shoes in all weights, with round, medium or pointed toes in plain, brogue or semi-brogue styles.

The prices range from $23.50 to $39.50 less ten per cent. discount for cash.

Prospects For The Third Test

PECULIAR ALTERATIONS MADE IN ENGLISH TEAM

(By R. Abbit)

The selections for the four-teen players to be in readiness at Manchester to-morrow must have come as a great surprise to a great many of my readers.

As a matter of fact there are now fifteen in readiness, as a recent cable states that Macaulay has stated he is not fit to play, and two more players have been invited. It will be more logical, however, in our trying to follow what is happening, if we start with the original selections.

When we had won the second Test, I rather expected that the selectors would leave well alone, at all events for one more match. And yet no less than three players have been dropped. Moreover, Nicholls, who has been on the waiting list twice, has been dropped altogether, as have Barnett and Gover who were in attendance at Lord's. One can only suppose that their county form has been disappointing.

But it is greatly to be hoped that the selectors will not make the mistake their predecessors did in 1929, when no less than twenty-five players actually represented England in the five Test matches. Up to the present thirteen have played and after to-morrow's game no less than sixteen will be the total—unless as seems possible now Bowes does not go out after all.

THE FAST BOWLERS.

On analysing the changes the obvious one to begin with is the question of fast bowlers. I am inclined to think that the Clark-Allen combination is rather a better one, provided both are fit, than the Furness-Bowes attack, if only for the reason that G. O. Allen is such a fine batsman on his day.

It has been announced that as Macaulay is unfit both James Langridge and Bowes have been asked to attend. I can hardly believe this exactly. I strongly suspect that Langridge is in for Macaulay and that Bowes has been sent for because there are serious doubts either about Clark or Allen.

The former has been suffering from ankle trouble while Allen has had an operation for appendicitis. He has played a certain amount but may not be sure of staying a four-day match—and one thing is certain: If the wicket is going to be a fast one we must have two perfectly fit fast bowlers. The other change in the exclusion of Garry, which did not

CRAWFORD AND SHIELDS IN CLASSIC DUEL

TENNIS NEARLY AS GOOD AS LAST YEAR'S FINAL

PERRY WINS HIS MATCH WITH A NETCORDER

London, July 4.

A huge crowd of 16,000 enthusiasts swarmed the centre court at Wimbledon to-day to see J. H. Crawford and F. J. Perry win their way into the final of the men's singles championship at the expense of the American invaders, Frank X. Shields and Sydney B. Wood.

Crawford, engaged in open of the most thrilling matches of his career, emerged triumphant after five gruelling sets, the first two of which he lost. Final scores in favour of the Australian were 2-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

Perry, in what Reuter describes as a comparatively poor match, overcame Sydney Wood after five sets, the Englishman leading from the first set. The scores in this match in Perry's favour read 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, 5-7, 6-3.

Crawford looked pale and was obviously unfit when he took the court against Shields, the conqueror of Austin. But he reached two love in the opening set before Shields began his fireworks.

Then the spectators saw some hurried tennis. The American, aided by the devastating service, took six games in a row, claiming many points with service aces, and employing forehand and backhand drives which carried the same speed as Vines of last year.

In the second set things toned down a bit. Games went with service until four-all and the best tennis of the year was served up during this period. Shields, however, got away with his second set.

In the third, the challenger seemed to ease up, apparently reserving himself for a bigger effort in the fourth set.

Crawford, taking advantage of the respite, indulged in some magnificent rallies and played great all round tennis. He continued to assume a definite ascendancy in the fourth set, and in the fifth set, the play was of such a standard as to almost equal that of the classic final of last year.

Shields, by dint of desperate methods, went to a 3-1 lead, but Crawford pulled him back and broke through to lead 4-3. Shields retaliated by winning the eighth game, and then with an amazing flourish of winning shots, Crawford ran out winner of Wimbledon's most spectacular game to date.

WOOD OVER-CONFIDENT.

The standard of play in the Perry v Wood match was far below the other semi-final.

Most of the crowd expected Wood to win in view of Perry's disappointing form against George Lott, and Wood seemed to tackle his task confident in this belief and as though defeat was very unlikely.

He was so casual in the first set that he appeared to "throw" it as a "pipe-opener," and was led five-love before he snatched three games. But Perry won the first set without further trouble.

In the second set Wood warmed up and served superbly. He continually used the Englishman with fast service deliveries, but in the rallies Perry was his equal, brilliantly exploiting his backhand.

Games went with service in the fourth set and at one stage Perry led 5-4, but Wood broke through and finished the set with a love game on service.

Perry, playing hard and cleverly at times, went to a 4-3 lead in the final set, and then won the match with a netcorder.—Reuter.

Another Wimbledon Sensation

DRAMATIC DEFEAT OF VON CRAMM

London, July 4.

There was another sensation at Wimbledon to-day, when Von Cramm, the German ace, and Miss L. Sperling, who was formerly Fraulien Krahwinkel, Germany's No. 2 lady player, were beaten in the third round of the Mixed doubles by I. G. Collins, the Scottish international and Lady Rowallan.

Collins and his partner achieved the distinction of winning in straight sets, both of which went to sixteen games. Collins was masterly at the net and received a full measure of support from Lady Rowallan.

Unfortunately for them, their joy was short-lived, for they played again in the fourth round later in the day, and were ousted by H.G.N. Lee and Miss Freda James.

Lee and Miss James also won in straight sets, the first ending at 6-2, and the second at 6-4.—Reuter.

Win By Nine Clear Sets Against Radio

Playing off their "C" Division encounter yesterday, Central British Association proved far too powerful for the Radio Sports Club, winning all nine sets. In the court of the match the Radio could win only eighteen games.

Detailed scores were: Gurevitch and Halford (C.B.A.) beat C. Jeffery and Sheriff 6-2; beat Kalyant Singh and G. M. Khan 6-2; beat Wm. Chanson and Devan 6-0.

F. Angus and J. Ferguson (C.B.A.) beat Jeffery and Sheriff 6-0; beat Kalyant Singh and Khan 6-1; beat Chanson and Devan 6-1.

C. Blyth and J. Whitley (C.B.A.) beat Jeffery and Sheriff 5-3; beat Kalyant Singh and Khan 6-3; beat Chanson and Devan 6-4.

Brews Wins French Golf Championship

Dieppe, July 4.

J. G. Brews, the South African, who finished second to Cotton in the British Open Golf Championship last week, to-day won the French Open Championship with a score of 284.

Brews, who is also South African champion, had rounds of 71-68-74-71. His 68 in the second round equalled the course record.

Aubrey Boomer of St. Cloud and Boyer of Nice tied for second place with cards of 286. Boyer led the field until the final round, when he partially collapsed.—Reuter.

FRED PERRY.

Fred Perry & Jack Crawford

ENGLISHMAN ENTERS WIMBLEDON FINAL FOR FIRST TIME

(By "Veritas").

Fred Perry, the brilliant English tennis player is next door to the crowning triumph of an amazing career. He has reached the final of the men's singles championship at Wimbledon, and on Saturday meets Jack Crawford of Australia, the title holder, for the blue riband of the tennis world.

Perry's chances of winning the championship for England for the first time since A. W. Gore's victory in 1909, are excellent. He has four times defeated Crawford in championships during the last twelve months, these being: The American national championship of 1933, the Australian national championship of 1933, the New South Wales championship of 1933 and the Harcourt championship of Britain this year.

Americans flopped in yesterday's semi-final struggles. Jack Crawford staged a superb recovery to oust Frank Shields, and Perry, in a comparatively poor match, wore down the over-confident Sydney Wood after five sets.

HIS FIRST FINAL.

This is the first time Perry has reached the final at Wimbledon, while it will be Crawford's second appearance. He won the title last year from Ellsworth Vines after one of the most classic displays of tennis ever seen on the famous centre court.

Both players have remarkable records of triumphs. Perry, for instance did not come into prominence until 1930, but since then his progress has been such as to make his career one of the most romantic of all first class players. His first representative tennis was played against Australia four years ago, and in the same year he reached the last sixteen at Wimbledon.

It was also in 1930 he first played in Davis Cup tennis and he has consistently played for England from that date. In 1931 he definitely "arrived". Touring America, Perry reached the semi-final of the U.S.A. singles championship and in the course of a very fine tour, recorded wins over all of the leading players.

In the following year he continued his run of victories in leading English tournaments. Winning the Harcourt championships, he also reached the semi-finals of the singles at Wimbledon and with G. P. Hughes, the final of the doubles.

In 1933 he won the French doubles championship with Hughes,

SEVERAL TEAMS SHARE HONOURS

New York, July 4.
New York Giants made a smart recovery to-day, when they twice defeated Boston Braves in a double header. Carl Hubbel blanked the Braves out in the second match.

The Yankees had to be content with a division of spoils in their double header against Boston Red Sox, but the Athletics beat the Senators to aid the American League Leaders.

Cincinnati and Pittsburgh also shared honours in a double header, as did Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals.

ALMOST PERFECT
HAS ONLY ONE
WEAKNESS

Don Bradman is the greatest batsman I have ever seen.

I have no hesitation in saying this after my unforgettable and enlightening experience this season at Lord's when I captained Middlesex against the Australians and bowled at England's Public Enemy No. 1.

Set a field for Bradman? Twenty-two men would not have been enough to plug all the holes he found in our run-saving barbed-wire entanglements during his masterpiece.

Bradman is a more versatile all-round player than even Charles Macartney, and he excels Walter Hammond at one stroke. The Australian has all the shots of the Gloucestershire "Ace" and a better square cut.

Never shall I forget one of Don's perfectly timed cuts up the hill against us.

The square cut is unfortunately missing from the armoury of many modern class batsmen, and I hope the fact that such a fine player makes it so magnificently, and gathers such a bagful of 4's will bring it into fashion again.

Bradman willingly incurred more risks in this great innings against Middlesex than would be justified if he aimed at security. But as a brilliant demonstration of scientific hitting I have never seen it remotely approached.

UNCANNY SHOTS.

All the lovely shots were seen in turn, and it was almost uncanny how, just as one was thinking, "Well, he has not played that one," the very stroke flashed out as if Bradman were a thought-reader.

Unhappily I did not see Ranji, Trumper, or Gilbert Jessop. Jack Hobbs, splendid batsman as he still is, was not playing with the audacity of his youth when I began watching first-class cricket. Therefore it is impossible for me to compare Bradman with his principal rivals in the past.

It is interesting to observe, however, that one's elders in the pavilion who have seen all the leading cricketers since the W. G. Grace epoch are gradually coming round to the view that this Australian artist, who has little more than begun his career, has had no superior.

Of course, there are two Bradmans as dramatically different as the facets of the dual personality of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde in Robert Louis Stevenson's story.

THE
PLAYER

The gay-hearted adventurer who was the despair of his opponents and the delight of that great Lord's crowd was not the player whom we saw in 1930 smashing record after record by watchful waiting for the loose ball.

A WEAKNESS.

When Bradman is in this cautious mood on a sound wicket I cannot understand why he ever does get out. But when he is "forked lightning in pads," as I heard someone describe him after his double century at Lord's, he is continually conceding the bowlers a sporting chance.

If Bradman has a little weakness, it is an inclination to step towards square-leg when facing a rising fast ball on the off. Thus if he ventures a stroke he is apt not to get completely over the ball. Some think they have detected certain other subtle flaws in his armoury. It would be unpatriotic of me to refer to them, because the knowledge may prove valuable to England in the epic battles about to be fought out.

What do I think will happen in the Tests? The first four will probably be drawn and the fifth a gamble with the weather.

MATCH NEXT WEEK

London, July 4.
The Oxford and Cambridge Universities to-day announced their teams for the annual cricket match to be played at Lord's starting on July 9. Both are strongly represented by sound all-round teams, but with leanings towards better batting than bowling.

The Universities this season have been concerned in some big scoring matches, suggesting that given a fast wicket at Lord's next Monday, there will be a lot of runs registered.

Cambridge are being represented by five old Blues in J. H. Human, R. de W. K. Winlaw, A. W. Allen, M. Jehangir Khan and J. G. W. Davies, while they have the assistance of H. T. Bartlett, a Freshman, who last year broke all records for fast scoring in schoolboy cricket.

The teams, as cabled by Reuter are:

CAMBRIDGE.

J. H. Human (Repton) captain
R. de W. K. Winlaw (Winchester)
A. W. Allen (Eton)
M. Jehangir Khan (Lahore)
J. G. W. Davies (Tonbridge)
A. G. Powell (Charterhouse)
A. G. Pelham (Eton)
G. W. Parker (Gloucester)
J. W. T. Grimshaw (King William)
J. S. M. King (Dulwich)
H. T. Bartlett (Dulwich)

OXFORD.

F. H. G. Chalk (Brasenose) captain
D. F. Walker (Brasenose)
C. H. Townsend (New College)
R. G. Tindall (Trinity)
A. Barlow (Brasenose)
J. W. Seamer (Brasenose)
N. S. Mitchell-Innes (Brasenose)
F. C. de Sarum (Keeble)
P. Singleton (Brasenose)
I. H. Dyson (Christchurch)
N. S. Knight (Wadham)

Fred Perry
And Jack

Touring America he won the national singles title, beating Crawford in five sets. Crossing over to Australia to take part in Test matches, he first outplayed Crawford in the New South Wales championship, and then recorded his third successive victory when they later met in the final of the national singles. Furthermore, with G. P. Hughes, Perry won the Australian doubles title.

Returning to England he again encountered Crawford in the final of the hardcourt championship, but won easily in straight sets. In Paris he was warm favourite for the French hardcourt crown, but a sprained ankle while playing against a Stefan ruined his chances of winning.

CRAWFORD—PERFECT
MACHINE.

Crawford, who is the most perfect "machine" on the tennis court since Rene Lacoste of France, last year reached the peak of his form, and in winning both the French and Wimbledon singles titles, established himself as the world's best player at the time.

Since then he has shown variable form. His continual defeats at the hands of Perry have already been referred to. Somewhat surprisingly he was beaten in the final of the French championship this year by Von Cramm, and it was generally felt that Crawford had begun to return to his weakness of early days, when inconsistency, through lack of sustained concentration, caused him to lose many a vital match after several brilliant displays.

In Australia, of course, Crawford has retained supreme for several years. McGrath is still his only serious rival there. A master of all the known strokes in the game, Crawford boasts an especially fine backhand and uses this as a weapon of attack. His recovery yesterday after being two sets down serves to show that he has again ventured his best form, and that he is still the most difficult man in the world to beat.

SMALL ARMS
TOURNEYR.A.S.C. Beat Royal
Artillery

A Small Arms competition was held between 20th Battery, R.A. and 12 Coy., R.A.S.C. at Stonecutters yesterday afternoon, 12 Coy. being the challengers.

The practices were five rounds application and five rounds rapid at 200 yards, and five rounds application at 300 yards, making a total "possible" of 65.

There was a strong following which, though it had no effect at 200 yards, at 300 yards necessitated aiming into the wind. In view of this, the scoring on both sides was quite good. The exceptionally low scores registered on each side were due to untied rifles.

Detailed scores were as follows:

R.A.	R.A.S.C.
Set. Layzell 48	Set. Headland 47
Set. Rawlinson 48	Set. Ercott 41
Mr. Darryl 42	Capt. Elich 41
Mr. Mickleth 35	Capt. Benson 40
Mr. Druce 33	Capt. Meeker 41
Mr. Gower 30	Pte. Tybis 40
Mr. Tyrell 20	Sgt. Highton 39
Mr. Walker 20	S.M.M. Dilly 38
Mr. Mason 24	Dvt. Ellison 38
Mr. Endicott 23	Pte. Arends 38
Mr. Hammond 23	Sgt. John 39
Mr. Brock 9	Cpl. Hallard 10
370	444

The butt party, which was ably directed by C.S.M. Summers, was supplied by the R.A.S.C.

After the firing, the two teams enjoyed a welcome "bath," and repaired to the R.A., N.A.A.F. Institute for tea.

RACE CASH SWEEPS.

Big Prizes To Be Won On Picnic Bay Stakes.

Encouraged by their success in the Jockey Stakes at the beginning of last June, the Hongkong Jockey Club have decided to run a Special Cash Sweep on the Picnic Bay Stakes which is to be run at the Seventh Extra Race Meeting to be held on September 22.

Tickets, which are limited to 100,000, will cost $1 each and conditions will be exactly the same as those for the Sweep on the Jockey Stakes.

Should all tickets be taken up, the prizes will be as follows: 1st Prize, $42,500; 2nd Prize, $12,100; 3rd Prize, $6,050. A sum of $15,000 will be divided amongst drawers of unplaced entered ponies (whether starters or not).

Tickets are now on sale at the Jockey Club offices.

One case of diphtheria, three cases of typhoid, two cases of meningitis with one death, three cases of animal rabies and 65 deaths from tuberculosis were reported to the local health authorities last week. On Tuesday there was a clean bill of health in the Colony.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

In my previous article I told you it was difficult to make six no trump unless you had a suit to work with. I really believe I should have said that it is difficult to make even a three no trump contract without such aid. Take for example to-day's hand. It has plenty of high card tricks and South is certainly justified in his opening bid of one no trump, as he holds three and one-half primary tricks and no weak doubletons.

North, with an ace and a king, is justified in going to two no trump. But it takes an odd squeeze play to make the contract.

However, leave it to the boys at Yale University to find a way to make their contract. It was there that this hand, sent to me by Fred Rodell, was played.

The Play

Against the three no trump contract, West opened the ten of hearts and East went up with the king. Personally, I believe that East should have played low.

South won the trick with the ace and cashed the king and queen of spades, learning to his sorrow that the spade suit was not going to break, when East let go a diamond.

The jack of clubs was played and East won the trick with the queen. A heart was returned by East, which South, declarer, won with the queen.

He next led the ten of clubs. West let go the five of diamonds, and East won with the ace. Another heart was returned and South won with the jack, a diamond being discarded from dummy.

At this point the declarer had five tricks in, and two clubs and a spade set up. He could see that a diamond lead might put West in to cash two heart tricks and set him.

If he were to cash his two clubs, this would set up a club trick for East; but the declarer decided that East was out of hearts, so a club was led. West discarded his jack of diamonds and the trick was won in dummy with the nine.

Another club was cashed, declarer letting go a spade, and West was squeezed. If he let go a spade, the declarer's two spades would be good, so the only thing he could do was to release one of his good hearts, and now all the declarer had to do was to lead a diamond from dummy and play the queen from his own hand.

West won the trick with the ace, cashed his nine of hearts, and was forced to lead a spade to dummy's ace. Declarer won the last trick with the king of diamonds.

Today's Contract Problem

East is playing the contract at five clubs, doubled. Can it be made?

THERE IS NOTHING "JUST AS GOOD AS" ENO'S "FRUIT SALT"

Think about ENO'S "Fruit Salt" for a moment. Ask yourself why it is accepted by the people of every nation as the finest, safest and most invigorating aid to good health. Perhaps you agree that ENO is everything that is claimed for it. But do you know this from your own personal experience? Have you actually put ENO to the test? Have you proved that it really does make you fitter and healthier, more energetic and clear-headed? Remember you cannot judge ENO by your experiments with other salts.

Buy a bottle of "Fruit Salt" to-day and you will quickly see why there is no substitute for ENO—and why, for your health's sake, you must always resolutely refuse substitutes.

THE WORDS "ENO" AND "FRUIT SALT" ARE REGISTERED TRADE MARKS.

STABILISATION

INTERNATIONAL SCHEME RUMOURED

London, July 4.
The forthcoming visit of Mr. George L. Harrison, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, to Basel for the meeting of the Bank of International Settlements, has given rise to rumours of early international currency stabilisation.

Well informed quarters are disregarding these rumours, pointing out that the question will eventually be decided by the treasuries, not by the governors of central banks.

It is also believed that conditions are not yet ripe for currency stabilisation.

Mr. Thomas J. Coolidge, Acting Secretary of the U.S. Treasury, emphatically denied rumours that the Treasury has formulated a silver purchase plan, including the acquisition, before the end of the year, of the maximum amount provided by the Silver Purchase Act, according to the Financial Times New York correspondent.

Mr. Coolidge declared that the Treasury has no definite silver programme outlined.

Other official circles point out that if the U.S. Treasury purchases large quantities, as rumoured, the result would be that the price of the metal would crash when the buying ceased.—Reuter.

MME. CURIE DEAD JOINT DISCOVERER OF RADIUM

Valence, July 3.
The death is announced of Madame Curie, famous radiologist and joint discoverer of radium.

Madame Curie died at 10 a.m. She was in the Sanatorium of San Colombe, near Salanches, where she was attempting to recover from an illness brought about by overwork.—United Press.

Marie Curie (nee Sklodowska) was born at Warsaw in November, 1867, her father being a master at a secondary school. After completing her schooling, she went to Paris where, as she was without means, she took a post as laboratory attendant in the Chemical Institute at the Sorbonne.

From this subordinate position, she soon rose to be a research chemist and assistant to the director of the institute, M. Pierre Curie, who later married her. She was investigating the ionisation of uranium salts when she found indications of the presence of an unknown substance, whereupon her husband, abandoning his work in connection with crystals, joined in her researches. In July, 1898, they were able to announce the discovery of polonium and in December that of radium.

M. Curie then devoted himself to the study of the properties of radium, while Mme. Curie took up the preparation of pure salts of radium. For their epoch-making researches, M. and Mme. Curie in 1903 were awarded the Nobel Chemistry Prize. Mme. Curie wrote a number of papers on radioactivity.

After the untimely death of her husband in 1906, as the result of a motor accident she succeeded him as a professor in the Faculty of Science at the Sorbonne and head of the Radium Institute there. In 1910 she was awarded the Albert Medal by the Royal Society of Great Britain and in 1911 she received the Nobel Prize for Physics.

CHINA'S JUDICATURE. LEGAL AUTHORITIES STUDY EUROPEAN SYSTEMS

Paris, July 4.
The vice-President of the Judicial Yuan and an important legal commission, which is in Europe to study the Continental and British judicial systems, is leaving for London in August.

The Chinese Minister to Britain, Mr. Quo Tai-chi, is writing to urge them to come to London sooner, as it is useless for them to go there when the Law Courts are closed for vacation.—Reuter.

ed once more the Nobel Chemistry Prize. Repeated efforts to secure her election to the French Academy failed, the ground being an objection to the principle of admitting women. Nevertheless, she was elected a member of the Academy of Medicine. In 1920 the Paris Municipal Council at the suggestion of Mme. Curie set aside 2,500,000 francs for the development of the Radium Institute, chiefly for the purchase of two grammes of radium at the cost of 800,000 francs per gramme, and it has been of great service in the treatment of cancer, which is prevalent in Paris.

In 1923, she and Georges Urbain, the director of the Paris Chemical Institute, put forward a scheme for an industrial laboratory for the training of chemical engineers where it would be possible to deal with the great masses of material necessary to produce an infinitesimal amount of radium. The chemical industry was prepared to finance its part of the laboratory and Urbain issued an appeal for funds for the radium section.

In November 1929, Mme. Curie visited New York to receive a cheque for $10,000 subscribed by American women with which to buy a gramme of radium for her researches. While in America she was the recipient of many honours. Mme. Curie has no son, but two daughters.—Reuter and Special.

The cigarette of Quality

Born back in the crinoline days, when Three Castles became justly famed for its wonderfully mellow flavour, this cigarette still remains a leader amongst the finest Virginia cigarettes made. A good friend, an honest smoke, "There's no sweeter tobacco come from Virginia; and no better brand than the Three Castles."

CHAPTER XLIII

Mrs. Pettingill thought she would just run over and see how those Morell children were getting along, now that their mother and father were away. Wasn't it just wonderful the way Harvey Morell had recovered after that terrible accident? It would have been a great loss to the family and he had had a close call, a very close call indeed, said Mrs. Pettingill, sighing and wiping her eyes. Well, the Lord had been good to them, and now Harvey and Louise had gone off to the mountains and there was Gypsy, looking rather peaked (but that was to be expected; that big child of hers was quite a care), over in the house, looking after the twins with Clytie's help.

It was a hot day. Hot and still, with big, fat, fleecy clouds sailing in a high blue sky. But not hot enough to deter Mrs. Pettingill from making a pie before she put on a fresh lavender dimity and brushed her iron gray hair into its customary neat waves. She knew Bertram and Beatrice loved pie.

The baby was parked in his carriage in the side yard under the big black blot of shade thrown by the old sugar maple. A glare of sunshine lay all over the rest of the place and most of the shades in the house were drawn, too. Well, bless his heart, said Mrs. Pettingill, smiling and clucking at the sweet lamb. Did he love his old Auntie Pettingill and was he a love of a child? He was!

Nobody seemed to be about, so Mrs. Pettingill went up on the porch and rang the bell. Through the screen door she could see approvingly that everything was in good order. Clytie came rambling through from the kitchen regions after a moment's wait. She showed her teeth and said Miss Gypsy was lying down and she'd just call her. "She not well?" Mrs. Pettingill wanted to know. "Oh, she's just a mite peaked," Clytie told her. "She not feeling no awful good this afternoon. Guess maybe it's the heat." They both nodded solemnly over this. This heat was enough to lay anybody low—except, of course, themselves. Whatever the weather, Clytie scrubbed and baked and roasted; Mrs. Pettingill did the same, varying the routine with trips to the Ladies Aid and missionary suppers on the church lawn. It wasn't to be expected that young folks would have their stamina.

Clytie refrained from expressing her own private opinion that Miss Gypsy had something on her mind, that she was fussing to herself about something. She had said, on arriving, that Mr. Weaver was out of town on business. But Clytie didn't take too much stock in this, since she knew the ways of men. Although she would say for Miss Tom, he seemed a very nice gentleman and always had.

Mrs. Pettingill sat in one of the wicker chairs on the porch, fanning herself, and after a bit Gypsy appeared in a filmy pink frock Mrs. Pettingill didn't remember having seen before.

"Why, child, you're right thin!" she said before she had thought twice about it. She was sorry the minute the words popped out because it wasn't tactful. Gypsy was more than thin. She was hollow-eyed. She looked as if she'd had sleepless nights. Why, land's sakes, Mrs. Pettingill murmured inwardly, she looks as though she'd been pulled through a knothole. They chatted for a while but, in spite of her most valiant efforts, Mrs. Pettingill discovered the conversation was flagging. Gypsy seemed utterly dispirited. The only time she brightened at all was when the visitor spoke of her father's recovery.

"That's it," Mrs. Pettingill told herself as she went down the steps. "She took his illness too much to heart. She's fagged out. Why, that child's not well."

After she had left Gypsy sat for a long time, relaxed in the low chair, staring at the pattern the maple branches throw across the porch. Clytie came out after a bit and plumped up pillows and wanted to know if Gypsy would like a glass of milk. Gypsy said listlessly that she thought not; when it got cooler she was going to walk down the street with David to the drugstore. She didn't acknowledge, even to herself, what she wanted to do there. She could see, in her mind's eye, the little telephone booth at the end of the shop, hidden by the jutting cosmetic counter and the lending library shelves. She wanted to call a certain downtown number . . . she wanted to ask a question. . . . At home someone would be sure to hear.

It was 10 days now since Tom's tall figure had swung itself out of the apartment door. Ten aching, dreadful days. At first she had been angry; resentful; bitter; now she only knew that all she wanted in the world was the sight of him, the sound of his deep, pleasant voice and the touch of his hand on hers. What had they quarrelled about? What did "it all" mean? Why, there was nothing in the whole world so important as their life together. To throw it away like this, without a look behind, without a gesture of regret—it was unthinkable!

And yesterday, to crown her trouble, Derek, who had been drifting toward the dark shadows ever since that night of the fall, had died. Some enterprising and suspicious reporter had caught wind of the true state of affairs. The morning's newspaper had carried a story full of veiled insinuations. Gypsy's name had not been mentioned but it was only a question of time, she thought dreadingly, before the whole miserable story would come out. Then Sue would know where Hunt had been that night. Sue, whose fragile, dawning happiness in Hunt's new devotion was a lovely thing to watch!

When first she had read of Derek's death, Gypsy's heart had ached and her tears had fallen. The affair seemed pitiable beyond belief and tragically sad. But now she had come to see that perhaps Derek, in leaving life, had justified himself. He had refused to make a compromise. He had loved Lila truly and deeply. Whether she would be able to build a new happiness on the ashes of his dead love remained to be seen.

Hunt had stopped by for a moment the night before. He had said, in a low tone, "Rotten luck for him! Rotten luck for us all!" Gypsy had looked at him quickly and proudly. "You can deny you were there if your name comes into it. No one need know."

She had shrugged her shoulders. "It doesn't matter about me."

Plainly he didn't want Sue to know he had attended Lila's funeral party, no matter how innocent his part in the night's affairs might have been. Sue had confided to Gypsy only Monday that Hunt was his old, sweet self to her these days.

And Sue's sweet laughter had rung out. Gypsy's lips had twisted themselves into a smile, but the implied comparison had stabbed her. Hunt, playing around with a gay crowd, had liked it all well enough until danger threatened. Now he had rushed to the safety and innocence of Sue's single-minded devotion.

"But he'll be a very good husband for her," Gypsy thought wistfully. She wouldn't be calling Tom today, she told herself proudly, if it weren't for this complication caused by Derek's death. Why, only an

Volleys of questions were fired on their arrival in Shanghai at the foreign passengers who were in the Shantung when she was pirated. This photograph shows Mrs. Robert Learmouth, at the right, answering a few inquiries put to her by a feminine press representative. Mrs. Learmouth is the two-month bride of an officer of the China Navigation Company's staff, and appears to be happy over the safe ending of her adventure.

All foreign passengers in the S.S. Shantung except three discontinued their voyages after the vessels had been pirated. The trio to land in Shanghai were the subjects for many photographers as the Shantung neared shore, and the view here shows all three standing on the promenade deck. At the left is Mrs. Warren, with her child. Next to her is Mrs. Robert Learmouth. Third from the left is a Chinese passenger, also a victim, while at the extreme right is Major Moulson, R.A.M.C.

being able to get back whence it came.

That the United States is a self-contained nation without any considerable overseas commitments is an argument which is certain to loom large at the Naval Conference in an effort to persuade the United States to accept some relative reduction of her naval strength as compared with other navies, all of which are maintained solely for the protection of overseas interests. Dependence upon overseas trade and colonies should surely be the measure of the strength of the navy required. And the relation of the commitments of the three great Naval Powers in the Pacific is much the same as it is throughout the world. No other Power can claim more than a fraction of the coast line that the British Empire has to protect, or utter dependence upon seaborne trade, carried over 85,000 miles of trade routes.

SEALED AGAINST ALL THE ELEMENTS.

THE "IMPERIAL" MODEL.
In Stainless Steel or Solid Gold.
A Supergrade Production.

THE STANDARD MODEL.
In Sizes for Men and Women.
"Snowite" or Solid Gold.

THE "OYSTER" WRIST WATCH is the world-famous ROLEX movement effectively sealed against all the elements. It is Waterproof, Dustproof and Sandproof. Extremes of temperature cannot affect the reliability of the "OYSTER", neither the intensely cold atmosphere of Arctic regions nor the hot, moist climate of Equatorial countries, can disturb the wonderful precision movement which is hermetically sealed against all harmful elements.

This remarkable watch is even Perspiration Proof. It is essential for use in the Tropics and especially recommended to all active Sportsmen and Sportswomen.

Because of its undeviating precision and absolute reliability in all climates the "OYSTER" Wristlet is a great favourite with the "Services"—many Naval and Military Officers have expressed their entire satisfaction with the behaviour of the "OYSTER" under the most exacting conditions.

HELPING BRITISH SHIPPING

Quite wisely, the Government is proceeding cautiously in rendering financial aid to British shipping. For the moment, the assistance is confined to an experimental grant not exceeding two millions sterling, for a period of one year, to owners of tramp vessels. Even this grant is made conditional on the owners formulating a scheme, satisfactory to the Government, so that the money shall not be dissipated in domestic competition between British ships but shall be utilised in securing greater employment of British shipping at the expense of foreign subsidised interests. But in this sphere, as in other branches of the industry, the Government really aims at placing shipping on a better paying basis. Thus the tramp owners are being expected, through their international organisations, to bring pressure to bear upon owners in other countries in the devising of plans tending to adjust tonnage supply to demand. A close reading of Mr. Runciman's statement shows that the Government has a distinct inclination towards the method of scrapping old tonnage and replacing it by a smaller quantity of up-to-date craft, either by modernisation of existing vessels or by new construction. Shipowners, however, are evidently not disposed to enter into such an arrangement, although the Government makes it clear that it is still prepared to co-operate in schemes of this type. Various other proposals have been under consideration, some of an inter-imperial character, and it is indicated that if the present measures fail in their object, it may yet be necessary to take further action. Primarily, of course, shipping must depend for its prosperity on increased trade, but it is essential, at a time when trade is still restricted and when competition by subsidised interests is so intense, that something be done to preserve the British industry from further decline. It is for this reason that the Government has now come forward with offers of financial aid. In general world interests, it would be infinitely preferable if subsidies of all kinds could be abolished, for precisely the same reason that a lowering and

NOTES OF THE DAY

It is quite obvious now that the final act of the German drama was not concluded with Hitler's swoop upon those threatening to put obstacles in his way. Almost as clear, too, is it that the Nazi Leader has sacrificed his whole cause to expediency. Appearances may suggest that he has strengthened his position, but the simple fact remains that to preserve himself in power now he must rely upon force and ever more force with the ultimate fate of all tyrants in store. He may even cease to be the real leader, while remaining the figurehead. It will suit the book of his sponsors and assistants, for as long as it suits them, to allow Hitler the "credit" for all eventualities.

PERSONAL TRAGEDY

The complete answer to the conundrum of the so-called Second Revolution has not been furnished. It probably waits upon further events. Hitler is supposed to have committed the strangest follies, making enemies among the Monarchists as well as among the "Faithful." That is the personal tragedy of Hitler, if the truth has been told. It is fair to say that fifty per cent. of the German people trusted and believed in Hitler implicitly until this last week-end. Another forty per cent. were prepared to keep an open mind and give him a chance to translate his promises into performance. His personal away was such that the winning over to his way of thinking of the majority of the Storm Troop leaders who died would not have been difficult had he chosen that way. The evidence, however, such as it is, is damning. Hitler's appears to have been the first intrigue; the plot of the Roehms and the Ernsts, a counter-intrigue. They felt they were being betrayed. Even if this does not represent the exact truth, this much is certain, the unquestioning faith of many of the German people in Hitler has been destroyed, beyond hope of restoration.

TEST TROUBLES

England's Test Selectors are having more trouble than enough. Clark, on whom they rested their hopes for fast bowling at Manchester, is now among the casualties and will be unable to turn out. The situation is almost ironical; a committee at their wit's end to find a capable fast bowler; and the finest speed trundler in the country, performing splendidly for his county, beyond their reach. Not a word of criticism can be levelled against Larwood. There is an incontrovertible argument to support his refusal to play. It is a well understood principle that a bowler, through his captain, has the most important say in the placing of the field. Sir Stanley Jackson, when informing the Press that Larwood would be invited to play for England, made it clear, in carefully chosen words, that Larwood would be conceded fewer liberties in this matter than is customary. Other bowlers may do much as they please about the field, but not Larwood. The position was obviously untenable, whether Larwood had thought of bowling leg-theory or not.

YOUTH IN THE CABINET

Mr. Oliver Stanley's promotion to Cabinet rank at the age of 37 marks one of the most spectacular rises to Parliamentary eminence of modern times. Less than three years have elapsed since he was given, his first Government post, that of Under-Secretary at the Home Office in August, 1931. In February last year, he was appointed Minister of Transport; today, he is Minister of Labour and a Privy Counsellor widely esteemed as an administrator of exceptional ability. He should prove a useful ally in Cabinet councils to Mr. Walter Elliot, the only other member who has not yet passed his fiftieth birthday, with whom he has close affiliations in outlook upon national and world problems. Clear-headed and sound, both are disciples of the newer Conservative school of statecraft, generally dubbed the Social-State wing of the Tory Party.

eventual abolition of tariffs would be of universal benefit. The British Government realises that point, but it is also convinced that the realities of the situation at the moment call for other than ideal measures, both in the one sphere and the other. There can, however, be no question of making unconditional grants to the shipping; the industry has to do its part in the direction of sound schemes of reorganisation. Meanwhile, it is gratifying to learn that the P. and O. Company is alive to future needs and is taking steps to meet competition by an extensive building programme.

BRITISH NAVY IN FAR EAST

By Lieut.-Commander KENNETH EDWARDS

THE recently announced proposal that preliminary talks should be conducted between the three great Naval Powers has drawn attention to the imminence of the Naval Conference of next year.

Beyond the suggestion that preliminary talks should take place, this country has remained silent; but the frequency with which statements are made by official spokesmen in Japan and the United States, and the rapidly with which these are always countered from the opposite side of the Pacific Ocean, leave no doubt that it will be upon the Pacific that the conference will either float or founder.

The silence which the British Empire has hitherto displayed by no means betokens lack of interest in this question of the Pacific. The Pacific is one of the major preoccupations of the British Empire from the defence point of view, for it not only forms a vast and largely unprotected frontier, but it is dotted with outposts which are to all intents and purposes defenceless. To the lay mind these outposts may seem of singularly little importance. But many of them are cable and wireless centres which are vital to the vast network of communications with which the Empire is knit.

The protection of these and the whole vast eastern frontier of the Empire is at present in the hands of the China Squadron, consisting of five cruisers, a destroyer flotilla, a double flotilla of submarines, and an aircraft carrier. There are also the Royal Australian Navy, consisting of two modern and two old cruisers, a half flotilla of destroyers and a small seaplane carrier; and the New Zealand Division consisting of two old cruisers.

For bases this fleet has Hongkong, Sydney, and Auckland, of which only Hongkong can be termed a fortified naval base. There is—or will be when finished—the Singapore base but that will form a base for supports rather than for cruisers and other craft employed on the protection of Australia, New Zealand, and the distant islands.

It will be seen that the commitments of the British Navy in the Pacific are enormous. What of those of the other major Naval Powers?

Japan is essentially a Pacific Power. Moreover, she is an island nation, dependent to a very large extent upon seaborne trade for the provision of foodstuffs and raw materials for her industry. But the trade routes in the Pacific which are vital to Japan are comparatively short. They are those to Korea, Manchuria and the China coast, to Australia and to the west through the Singapore Straits. These trade routes are not very widely dispersed, and the length of the longest of them is but a quarter of the watery eastern frontier of the British Empire. Moreover, the very centralisation of her forces reduces the total force necessary for adequate protection.

And what of the naval commitments of the United States in the Pacific? Colonially, they are confined to the Philippine Islands, Hawaii, Guam and a few other islands of very secondary importance. So far as the protection of trade is concerned, the United States certainly has a large trade with China, but this trade is by no means vital to her existence. Beyond that, American naval commitments are confined to the protection of her coasts.

America has for many years maintained an Asiatic Squadron based on Manila. This squadron has often been severely criticised by American naval opinion, the criticism being based on the argument that it could not be maintained in the event of war, and would certainly be defeated in detail before support could arrive. This is no less than the truth. Manila is some 7,000 miles from the American coast and about 6,000 miles from Hawaii, the great American naval base in mid-Pacific. But it is not only sheer distance which precludes the possibility of giving support to the Asiatic Squadron or to Manila in time of war. A glance at the map reveals the fact that the line of communication between the Philippines and America or Hawaii passes within easy striking distance of Japan.

For these reasons the withdrawal of the Asiatic Squadron has been repeatedly urged. And it is being urged again, in view of the decision to grant independence to the Philippines. With the independence of the Philippines looming ahead, there can be no adequate reason for the maintenance of the Asiatic Squadron of the United States Navy. And with its withdrawal the United States naval commitments in the Pacific will at once be enormously reduced. They would, in fact, be confined to the holding of Hawaii and to defence of the American coast. If one excepts the guarding of a non-vital trade route which it would be quite impossible to protect in the event of hostilities with Japan.

But Mr. Swanson, Secretary to the United States Navy, has announced that if Japan would have naval parity, America would have to consider extending her naval bases in the Pacific. It is difficult to see what bases Mr. Swanson has in mind. Hawaii is already a base of immense strength. Manila, as we have seen, is untenable in the event of war. There remains Guam, which is already a minor naval base. But this island is nearly four thousand miles from Hawaii and therefore out of practicable supporting distance. Certainly there are the bases on the Pacific Coast of the United States and the western approaches to the Panama Canal.

These might be extended and their fortifications strengthened—but against what? So long as Hawaii can be held and accommodate a covering fleet it would be madness for operations to be contemplated against the American coast. And even if we discount Hawaii, such operations could hardly be undertaken with any great prospect of success, on account of the great distances involved and the all-important fact that any raiding squadron or invading force must safeguard its communications, and be certain of

The Very Idea!

IT'S A GIRAFFE!

By George.

NATURE STUDIES.

(Extracts from Little Ada's Exercise Book).

THE giraffe is found only in Africa. Whipsnade and Camden Town which is a two-penny bus ride from our old home unless you sit in the back seats when it is a penny (unless you nods to the conductor when he thinks you've got a season ticket but teacher says this is not a nice thing to do and smacked Tommy Huggins recently for doing it).

The giraffe is chiefly famous for its neck which is long and elegant but makes you sick when you look at it too long. Teacher says we should all have long graceful necks and gives us special exercises to grow long necks. My neck is very long but not so long as a giraffe's.

Being long and thin the giraffe can often disguise itself as a telephone post but as the poor creature is dumb this deception could not be practised twice. The giraffe has adapted itself to its high altitude by learning to eat trees but it is not a tree climbing bird and does not lay eggs.

The giraffe has four legs apart from its neck and being unable to speak it conveys its meaning to its mate with dainty little kicks or by writing in word pictures on the sand.

The giraffe can easily be distinguished from the walrus by the shape of its head.

The origin of the giraffe is traced back to the first giraffe who aimed too high in life and was left in the air.

Would you believe it—we had another letter from Bane Awfords to-day and the wife dealt with it.

Dear Sir, (they began) We are grateful for your letter to hand in which you had the kindness to express appreciation of our business and speak feelingly of that probity and integrity which it has always been our aim to maintain at a high standard.

Whilst cordially reciprocating these sentiments we would also take the opportunity of enquiring about your health and your little doggie, Beepo, who visited our hardware department yesterday and for a very small reason was removed rather hastily by a coolie. We trust you will accept our explanation of this unhappy incident that the coolie was not aware that the little dog belonged to a customer.

May we take the opportunity in passing to include a statement of your account for $200 and trust that our pleasant relations will be further cemented by a prompt settlement?

Thanking you in anticipation,
Yrs Fily,
Bane Awfords.

To which with Beepo's assistance our wife had little difficulty in replying.

Dear Bane Awfords,—As we sit at our desk compiling this reply to your kind note this morning, Beepo sits alive and well, beside us and barks his deep regret for his misbehaviour in your hardware department.

He knows that he is not allowed to enter shops without us but his mother was born in a hardware department and Beepo seems to have inherited a passion for such places. (Haven't you, Beepo? You little sweet, tweet, weel!)

We appreciate your courtesy in returning little Beepo to the house and enclose herewith a cheque for $10 on account until we have had time to go into the account. It is such a long time since we bought some of the articles mentioned in the bill that we have really forgotten whether we bought them or had them on approval.

However we shall be wanting some more things soon and we can then go over the account and see what can be done about it. (Can't we Beepo?)

Beepo says "Yes" so that will be alright.

Yours faithfully,
A.J.M. Smythe-Byllintou (Mrs)

for Mr. (who is out but will be back shortly—he is probably at the office but did not answer the telephone.)

P.S. What does "Fily" mean or is it your reference? We haven't got one but we expect the same address will find us. Mrs. S-4.

DOMINION
LOANSSAFEGUARDING OF
GOVERNMENT

London, July 4.
An important statement was made in the House of Commons by Mr. Neville Chamberlain on the subject of the Colonial Stock Act (1900) Declaration Bill recently passed in the Parliament of the Union of South Africa.

This, he said, was the result of an agreement between His Majesty's Government and the Union Government, the latter having informed us that they proposed to repeal the section of the South Africa Act, 1909, which provides for the exercise of powers of disallowance in respect of Union legislation. The action was in accordance with the constitutional developments of the last few years.

DISALLOWANCE PROVISIO.

But one of the conditions prescribed by the Treasury under the Colonial Stock Act, 1900, with which every Dominion or Colonial Government must comply in order to obtain trustee status in the United Kingdom for their securities, stipulates that the right of disallowance shall be expressly recognised by the borrowing Government in respect of any legislation which appears to the United Kingdom Government to alter any of the provisions affecting the stock or to involve departure from the original contract in regard to the stock.

The Union Government, therefore, realising that when the power of disallowance ceased, these conditions would, in the absence of an express stipulation, become nugatory, and desiring to maintain in the fullest possible degree the rights of holders of their stocks, approached the United Kingdom Government with a view to devising an alternative form of safeguard.

NEW STIPULATION.

As the result of discussion, it was agreed that the Union Government should enter into an undertaking with the United Kingdom Government, not confirmed by the Act referred to, and that the new undertaking, which should be accepted by the Treasury, subject to approval of Parliament, as an alternative to the existing stipulation, should be as follows:—"His Majesty's Government in the Dominion has undertaken that the legislation which appears to the United Kingdom Government to alter any of the provisions affecting stock, or to involve departure from the original contract in regard to the stock, shall not be submitted for Royal assent, except after agreement with the United Kingdom Government, and that if attention is drawn to any such legislation as aforesaid after the passing thereof by the Dominion Parliament the Government in the Dominion will take the necessary steps to ensure such amendment as may be requested by the United Kingdom Government."

A CHOICE OF METHOD.

A Bill is being presented to the House of Commons authorising the Treasury to accept in undertaking, in agreed form, from any Dominion Government which prefers to adopt this as an alternative to the existing stipulation, or which prefers to borrow under the existing Treasury conditions, as many of the Governments do, is at liberty to continue in the existing practice.

Mr. Chamberlain said he was entirely satisfied that the existing rights of stockholders would be safeguarded equally under either condition.—British Wireless.

UNEMPLOYED
INDIANEXPULSION ORDER
MADE

An expulsion order against Bagh Singh, an unemployed Indian, was made by Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, to come into effect from Saturday, July 7.

The defendant was charged with having entered the Colony without a valid passport, and that, being the holder of a travel document from the British Vice-Consul at Tientsin, he did remain in the Colony and not tranship to India.

Defendant admitted the charges, saying he had no money. He had written to India about ten days ago for money to enable him to return.

Mr. Hamilton asked defendant why he told the police that he had been given a letter by the Consul, and that he was going to India.

Defendant said he thought he could get some money from a friend in Hongkong to go back.

Mr. Hamilton said he would be sent back to India, and was to remain in police custody until Saturday.

TIMBER MERCHANT
DEFAUDEDEMPLOYEES KEEP MONEY

Two assistant store-keepers, Wong Chung and Tong Fat, were charged at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, before Mr. Lee, with converting money, belonging to their master, to their own use.

Wong Chung was alleged to have converted $244.87 out of a sum of $521.44 which he was told to pay in to the Kowloon Godowns for storage of timber. Tong Fat was alleged to have taken $87.85 out of $170.07.

Detective Inspector Rozesky said the two men were employed by a timber merchant, Wong Tong, of No. 32 Canton Road. He sent the two defendants to pay in the money mentioned in various sums between February and May, and only found out last week that he had been defrauded.

Wong Chung was sentenced to six months, and Tong Fat to three months.

A woman, Wong Mei, was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital, yesterday, suffering from burns caused by a bottle of sulphuric acid being accidentally broken.

A fine of $10 was imposed on Mr. R. S. Bell, of 706 Nathan Road, by Mr. Lee at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning for allowing his dog out in the street without a muzzle at 7.15 a.m. on June 14. Defendant admitted the offence.

L. Gomes, 18 years of age, was fined $3 by Mr. Lee at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning for riding a bicycle without a light yesterday evening. He pleaded guilty but stated that the lamp had blown his light out. Detective Inspector Rozesky told his Worship, however, that the lamp was cold when it was examined.

With two previous convictions against him, Wong Ping-cheung, 28, unemployed, was sentenced to three months' hard labour by Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Magistracy this morning for stealing four iron bars and an iron grating from an unoccupied house at No. 30A Pottinger Street. The complainant was Mr. Li Hoi-tung, landlord of No. 4 Queen's Road Central.

Six weeks' imprisonment was imposed by Mr. Hamilton, this morning, on a woman, Chu Foon, unemployed, for the theft of a jacket containing $20.35, a purse and a bunch of keys from No. 49 Leighton Hill Road, property of Surjan Singh, a private watchman. Detective Sergeant Fitch said defendant was formerly employed by complainant as a servant. Defendant admitted the charge, but complained that complainant had struck her.

SPEECHES

London, July 4.

The seventy-eight-year-old Labour leader, Mr. Tom Mann, and the well-known Communist organiser, Harry Pollitt, were acquitted at Glamorgan Assizes to-day on a charge of making seditious speeches.

It was alleged that the offences occurred in February shortly before the so-called Hunger Marchers from the Provinces and Scotland converged upon London for their demonstration in Hyde Park.

Mann and Pollitt were arrested in London on the day before the Marchers were due to arrive.

of the Reichsbank embodied in the communiqué issued on 29th May, 1934, shall apply to all interest, etc., due in respect of investments which on 15th June, 1934, were in the beneficial ownership of British holders, provided that if the German Government should conclude any agreement with any other creditor country under which more favourable terms are accorded to residents in their country in respect of non-Reich loans, it shall be open to British holders to claim corresponding treatment in respect of investments held by them on 15th June, 1934, and should such claim be put forward, the question will be settled by agreement between the two countries on a basis of non-discrimination, taking account of all circumstances, including any advantages which Germany receives from other creditors as compared with any advantages which Germany receives from the United Kingdom.

BRITISH POWERS IN
SUSPENSE

Finally, the agreement provides that the British Government will not, during the period of the agreement, exercise in respect of Germany the powers vested in the Government by the Debts Clearing Offices and Imports Restrictions Act, 1934. The agreement is, of course, without prejudice to standard terms in regard to short-term debts.

Mr. Chamberlain added that in the preamble to the agreement, both Governments affirm their earnest desire that the trade and financial relations between these countries will continue on a non-discriminatory and most friendly basis and that the volume of mutual trade shall be maintained and, as far as possible, increased. In pursuance of this principle, the German Government have informed the British Government that they are prepared to negotiate an agreement for commercial payments similar to those which are or may be in force between Germany and other countries. This matter is dealt with in an exchange of letters contained in the White Paper.

SATISFACTORY SOLUTION.

Concluding, Mr. Chamberlain said:—"It would have been more satisfactory if the German Government could have made an arrangement with all its creditors on the lines of this agreement, but as the German Government is engaged in separate negotiations and with different creditors, we have been forced to take the same line, and I hope the House will agree that, so far as this country is concerned, this agreement is a satisfactory solution."—British Wireless.

FALSIFICATION OF ACCOUNTSSENTENCED AFTER FOUR YEARS

A plea of guilty was tendered by Wong Mei-ling, alias Wong Eng-ling, a Shanghai man, before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Magistracy this morning to two charges in respect of the falsification of accounts of the amount of $2,000 and $2,500, respectively, in 1930.

Sentence of twelve months' hard labour was passed.

Mr. F. G. Nigel, of Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master, appeared on behalf of the prosecution. He said:—"The defendant's system in making these false entries was as follows. The Bank of China, by whom he was employed, were in the habit of receiving regulations, letters or cables from various banks in other parts of China asking the Bank of China to pay on behalf of the banks elsewhere in China amounts as specified to certain persons in Hongkong. On receipt of such regulation, the Bank of China would send a communication to the person in question to call at the bank and then he received the money provided the bank were satisfied he was the man, or if he was represented a guarantee would be produced. The defendant was in charge of that department and dealt with these money transfers."

NON-EXISTENT PEOPLE.

"On the two occasions when these two vouchers were made he alleged to the manager that the Shanghai Commercial and Savings Bank, in respect of the first voucher, asked them to pay on their behalf $2,000 to one Leung Chi-sang and in the other case to pay the sum of $2,500 to a person by the name of Mak Sze-ming. Such persons, in fact, did not exist. There is no record of any letter having been received. If it was, it has been destroyed."

"The defendant made out these vouchers and instructed a friend to come to the bank and say he was the man mentioned in the vouchers. The person came in and produced some form of guarantee. I cannot say whether the same man came in on both occasions. After having collected the money, the defendant and his friend shared the proceeds. In of the amount involved, I think that the maximum penalty should be given in each case, and under Section 53 of the Magistrates' Ordinance I would ask your Worship to order the terms to run consecutively."

The Magistrate:—I realise that this offence is four years old, but under the section, if the defendant had been committed he would have got the maximum penalty of seven years, and in view of that I am sentencing him to six months' hard labour on each charge, consecutively.

Prospects For The Third Test

PECULIAR ALTERATIONS MADE IN ENGLISH TEAM

(By R. Abbit)

The selections for the four-teen players to be in readiness at Manchester to-morrow must have come as a great surprise to a great many of my readers.

As a matter of fact there are now fifteen in readiness, as a recent cable states that Macaulay has stated he is not fit to play, and two more players have been invited. It will be more logical, however, in our trying to follow what is happening, if we start with the original selections.

When we had won the second Test, I rather expected that the selectors would leave well alone, at all events for one more match. And yet no less than three players have been dropped. Moreover, Nicholls, who has been on the waiting list twice, has been dropped altogether, as have Barnett and Gover who were in attendance at Lord's. One can only suppose that their county form has been disappointing.

But it is greatly to be hoped that the selectors will not make the mistake their predecessors did in 1929, when no less than twenty-five players actually represented England in the five Test matches. Up to the present thirteen have played and after to-morrow's game no less than sixteen will be the total—unless as seems possible now Bowes does not go out after all.

THE FAST BOWLERS.

On analysing the changes the obvious one to begin with is the question of fast bowlers. I am inclined to think that the Clark-Allen combination is rather a better one, provided both are fit, than the Farnes-Bowes attack, if only for the reason that G. O. Allen is such a fine batsman on his day. It has been announced that as Macaulay is unfit both James Langridge and Bowes have been asked to attend. I can hardly believe this exactly. It strongly suggests that Langridge is in for Macaulay and that Bowes has been sent for because there are serious doubts either about Clark or Allen.

The former has been suffering from ankle trouble while Allen has had an operation for appendicitis. He has played a certain amount, but may not be sure of playing in four day matches—and one thing is certain. If the wicket is going to be a fast one we must have two perfectly fit fast bowlers. The other change is the exclusion of Goary, which did not

London, July 4.

A huge crowd of 16,000 enthusiasts swarmed the centre court at Wimbledon to-day to see J. H. Crawford and F. J. Perry win their way into the final of the men's singles championship at the expense of the American invaders, Frank X. Shields and Sydney B. Wood.

Crawford, engaged in one of the most, thrilling matches of his career, emerged triumphant after five gruelling sets, the first two of which he lost. Final scores in favour of the Australian were 2-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

Perry, in what Reuter describes as a comparatively poor match, overcame Sydney Wood after five sets, the Englishman leading from the first set. The scores in this match in Perry's favour read 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, 5-7, 6-3.

Crawford looked pale and was obviously unfit when he took the court against Shields, the conqueror of Austin. But he reached two love in the opening set before Shields began his fireworks.

Then the spectators saw some hurricane tennis. The American, aided by the devastating service, took six games in a row, claiming many points with service aces, and employing forehand and backhand drives which carried the same speed as Vines of last year.

In the second set things toned down a bit. Games went with service until four-all and the best tennis of the year was served up during this period. Shields, however, got away with his second set. In the third, the challenger seemed to ease up, apparently reserving himself for a bigger effort in the fourth set.

Crawford, taking advantage of the respite, indulged in some magnificent rallies and played great all round tennis. He continued to assume a definite ascendancy in the fourth set, and in the fifth set, the play was of such a standard as to almost equal that of the classic final of last year.

Shields, by dint of desperate methods, went to a 3-1 lead, but Crawford pulled him back and broke through to lead 4-3. Shields retaliated by winning the eighth game, and then with an amazing flourish of winning shots, Crawford ran out winner of Wimbledon's most spectacular game to date.

WOOD OVER-CONFIDENT.

The standard of play in the Perry v Wood match was far below the other semi-final. Most of the crowd expected Wood to win in view of Perry's disappointing form against George Lott, and Wood seemed to tackle his task confident in this belief and as though defeat was very unlikely.

He was so casual in the first set that he appeared to "throw" it as a "pipe-opener," and was led five-ones before he snatched three games. But Perry won the first set without further trouble.

In the second set Wood warmed up and served superbly. He continually edged the Englishman with fast service deliveries, but in the rallies Perry was his equal, brilliantly exploiting his backhand. Games went with service in the fourth set and at one stage Perry led 6-4, but Wood broke through and finished the set with a love game on service.

Perry, playing hard and cleverly at times, went to a 4-3 lead in the final set, and then won the match with a netcorder.—Reuter.

PETERSEN TO FIGHT GAINS

AND WINNER WILL MEET CARNERA

Jack Petersen, who recently won the British Empire heavy-weight title from Len Harvey, has been booked to meet Larry Gains at the White City on September 10 for the British Empire title. The winner will probably meet Primo Carnera, dethroned world's champion, in Paris on October 15.—Reuter.

Another Wimbledon Sensation

DRAMATIC DEFEAT OF VON CRAMM

London, July 4.

There was another sensation at Wimbledon to-day, when Von Cramm, the German ace, and Miss L. Sperling, who was formerly Fraulien Krahwinkel, Germany's No. 2 lady player, were beaten in the third round of the Mixed doubles by I. G. Collins, the Scottish International and Lady Rowellan.

Gollins and his partner achieved the distinction of winning in straight sets both of which went to sixteen games. Collins was masterly at the net and received a full measure of support from Lady Rowellan.

Unfortunately for them, their joy was short-lived, for they played again in the fourth round later in the day, and were ousted by H.G.N. Lee and Miss Freda James.

Lee and Miss James also won in straight sets, the first ending at 6-2, and the second at 6-4.—Reuter.

LEAGUE TENNIS POINTS FOR THE C.B.A.

Win By Nine Clear Sets Against Radio

Playing off their "C" Division encounter yesterday, Central British Association proved far too powerful for the Radio Sports Club, winning all nine sets. In the court of the match the Radio could win only eighteen games.

Detailed scores were: Gurevitch and Halford (C.B.A.) beat C. Jeffery and Sheriff 6-2; beat Kalwant Singh and G. M. Khan 6-2; beat Wm. Chanson and Devan 6-0.

F. Angus and J. Ferguson (C.B.A.) beat Jeffery and Sheriff 6-0; beat Kalwant Singh and Khan 6-3; beat Chanson and Devan 6-1.

C. Blyth and J. Whitley (C.B.A.) beat Jeffery and Sheriff 5-3; beat Kalwant Singh and Khan 6-3; beat Chanson and Devan 6-4.

Brews Wins French Golf Championship

Dieppe, July 4.

J. G. Brews, the South African, who finished second to Cotton in the British Open Golf Championship last week, to-day won the French Open Championship with a score of 284.

Brews, who is also South African champion, had rounds of 71-68-74-71. His 68 in the second round equalled the course record. Aubrey Boomer of St. Cloud and Boyer of Nico tied for second place with cards of 286. Boyer led the field until the final round, when he partially collapsed.—Reuter.

FRED PERRY.

Fred Perry & Jack Crawford

(By "Veritas").

Fred Perry, the brilliant English tennis player is next door to the crowning triumph of an amazing career. He has reached the final of the men's singles championship at Wimbledon, and on Saturday meets Jack Crawford of Australia, the title holder, for the blue riband of the tennis world.

Perry's chances of winning the championship for England for the first time since A. W. Gore's victory in 1909, are excellent. He has four times defeated Crawford in championships during the last twelve months, these being: The American national championship of 1933, the Australian national championship of 1933, the New South Wales championship of 1933 and the Harcourt championship of Britain this year.

Americans flopped in yesterday's semi-final struggles. Jack Crawford staged a superb recovery to oust Frank Shields, and Perry, in a comparatively poor match, wore down the over-confident Sydney Wood after five sets.

HIS FIRST FINAL

This is the first time Perry has reached the final at Wimbledon, while it will be Crawford's second appearance. He won the title last year from Ellsworth Vines after one of the most classic displays of tennis ever seen on the famous centre court.

Both players have remarkable records of triumphs. Perry, for instance did not come into prominence until 1930, but since then his progress has been such as to make his career one of the most romantic of all first class players. His first representative tennis was played against Australia four years ago, and in the same year he reached the last sixteen at Wimbledon.

It was also in 1930 he first played in Davis Cup tennis and he has consistently played for England from that date. In 1931 he definitely "arrived". Touring America, Perry reached the semi-final of the U.S.A. singles championship and in the course of a very fine tour, recorded wins over all of the leading players.

In the following year he continued his run of victories in leading English tournaments. Winning the Harcourt championships, he also reached the semi-finals of the singles at Wimbledon and with G. P. Hughes, the final of the doubles.

In 1933 he won the French doubles championship with Hughes,

New York, July 4.

New York Giants made a smart recovery to-day, when they twice defeated Boston Braves in a double header. Carl Hubbel blanked the Braves out in the second match.

The Yankee had to be content with a division of spoils in their double header against Boston Red Sox, but the Athletics beat the Senators to aid the American League Leaders.

Cincinnati and Pittsburgh also shared honours in a double header, as did Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals.

ALMOST

Don Bradman is the greatest batsman I have ever seen.

I have no hesitation in saying this after my unforgettable and enlightening experience this season at Lord's when I captained Middlesex against the Australians and bowled at England's Public Enemy No. 1.

Set a field for Bradman? Twenty-two men would not have been enough to plug all the holes he found in our run-saving barbed-wire entanglements during his masterpiece.

Bradman is a more versatile all-round player than even Charles Macartney, and he excels Walter Hammond at one stroke. The Australian has all the shots of the Gloucestershire "Ace" and a better square cut.

Never shall I forget one of Don's perfectly timed cuts up the hill against us.

The square cut is unfortunately missing from the quiver of many modern class batsmen, and I hope the fact that such a fine player makes it so magnificently and gathers such a bagful of 4's will bring it into fashion again.

Bradman willingly incurred more risks in this great innings against Middlesex than would be justified if he aimed at security. But as a brilliant demonstration of scientific hitting I have never seen it remotely approached.

UNCANNY SHOTS.

All the lovely shots were seen in turn, and it was almost uncanny how, just as one was thinking, "Well, he has not played that one," the very stroke flashed out as if Bradman were a thought-reader.

Unhappily I did not see Ranji, Trumper, or Gilbert Jessop. Jack Hobbs, splendid batsman as he still is, was not playing with the audacity of his youth when I began watching first class cricket. Therefore it is impossible for me to compare Bradman with his principal rivals in the past.

It is interesting to observe, however, that one's elders, in the pavilion who have seen all the leading cricketers since the W. G. Grace epoch are gradually coming round to the view that this Australian artist, who has little more than begun his career, has had no superior.

Of course, there are two Bradmans as dramatically different as the facets of the dual personality of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde in Robert Louis Stevenson's story.

PLAYER

The gay-hearted adventurer who was the despair of his opponents and the delight of that great Lord's crowd was not the player whom we saw in 1930 smothering record after record by watchful waiting for the loose ball.

A WEAKNESS.

When Bradman is in this cautious mood on a sound wicket I cannot understand why he ever does get out. But when he is "forked lightning in pads," as I heard someone describe him after his double century at Lord's, he is continually conceding the bowlers a sporting chance.

If Bradman has a little weakness, it is an inclination to step towards square leg when facing a rising fast ball on the off. Thus if he ventures a stroke he is apt not to get completely over the ball. Some think they have detected certain other subtle flaws in his armoury. It would be unpatriotic of me to refer to them, because the knowledge may prove valuable to England in the epic battles about to be fought out.

What do I think will happen in the Tests?

The first four will probably be drawn and the fifth a gamble with the weather.

MATCH NEXT WEEK

London, July 4. The Oxford and Cambridge Universities to-day announced their teams for the annual cricket match to be played at Lord's starting on July 9. Both are strongly represented by sound all round teams, but with leanings towards better batting than bowling.

The Universities this season have been concerned in some big scoring matches, suggesting that given a fast wicket at Lord's next Monday, there will be a lot of runs registered.

Cambridge are being represented by five old Blues in J. H. Human, R. de W. K. Winlaw, A. W. Allen, M. Jehangir Khan and J. G. W. Davies, while they have the assistance of H. T. Bartlett, a Freshman, who last year broke all records for fast scoring in schoolboy cricket.

The teams, as cabled by Reuter are:

CAMBRIDGE.

J. H. Human (Repton) captain
R. de W. K. Winlaw (Winchester)

A. W. Allen (Eton)
M. Jehangir Khan (Lahore)
J. G. W. Davies (Tonbridge)
A. G. Powell (Charterhouse)
A. G. Pelham (Eton)
G. W. Parker (Gloucester)
J. W. T. Grimshaw (King William)
J. S. M. King (Dulwich)
H. T. Bartlett (Dulwich)

OXFORD.

P. H. G. Chalk (Brasenose) captain

D. F. Walker (Brasenose)
C. H. Townsend (New College)
R. G. Tindall (Trinity)
A. Barlow (Brasenose)
J. W. Seamer (Brasenose)

Fred Perry
And Jack

Touring America he won the national singles title, beating Crawford in five sets. Crossing over to Australia to take part in Test matches, he first outplayed Crawford in the New South Wales championship, and then recorded his third successive victory when they later met in the final of the national singles. Furthermore, with G. P. Hughes, Perry won the Australian doubles title.

Returning to England he again encountered Crawford in the final of the hardcourt championship, but won easily in straight sets. In Paris he was warm favourite for the French hardcourt crown, but a sprained ankle while playing against de Stefani ruined his chances of winning.

CRAWFORD—PERFECT
MACHINE.

Crawford, who is the most perfect "machine" on the tennis court since Rene Lacoste of France, last year reached the peak of his form, and in winning both the French and Wimbledon singles titles, established himself as the world's best player at the time.

Since then he has shown variable form. His continual defects at the hands of Perry have already been referred to. Somewhat surprisingly he was beaten in the final of the French championship this year by Von Cramm, and it was generally felt that Crawford had begun to return to his weakness of early days, when inconsistency, through lack of sustained concentration, caused him to lose many a vital match after several brilliant displays.

In Australia, of course, Crawford has regained supremacy for several years. McGrath is still his only serious rival there. A master of all the known strokes in the game, Crawford boasts an especially fine backhand and uses this as a weapon of attack. His recovery yesterday after being two sets down serves to show that he has again recaptured his best form, and that he is still the most difficult man in the world to beat.

SMALL ARMS

Artillery

A Small Arms competition was held between 20th Battery, R.A., and 12 Coy. R.A.S.C. at Stonecutters yesterday afternoon, 12 Coy. being the challengers.

The practices were five rounds application and five rounds rapid at 200 yards, and five rounds application at 300 yards, making a total "possible" of 65.

There was a strong following wind which, though it had no effect at 200 yards, at 300 yards necessitated aiming into the wind. In view of this, the scoring on both sides was quite good. The exceptionally low scores registered on each side were due to untired rifles.

Detailed scores were as follows:

R.A.	R.A.S.C.
Sgt. Layzell 48	Sgt. Headland 47
Sgt. Hallowell 42	Cpl. Ezzell 41
Sgt. Durrer 35	Capt. Ezech 42
Sgt. Mellers 35	Sgt. Brown 42
Sgt. Bresser 30	Lt. Col. Mosley 41
Sgt. Cover 30	Pte. Tybke 40
Sgt. Tyrell 29	Sgt. Highton 40
Sgt. Walker 28	Sgt. M. D. D. 38

Sgt. Eadie 28	Pte. Arnold 33
Sgt. Hammond 28	Sgt. John 29
Sgt. Brock 9	Cpl. Ballard 10

The butt party, which was ably directed by C.S.M. Summers, was supplied by the R.A.S.C.

After the firing, the two teams enjoyed a welcome bath, and repaired to the R.A., N.A.A.F. Institute for tea.

RACE CASH SWEEPS.

Picnic Bay Stakes.

Encouraged by their success in the Jockey Stakes at the beginning of last June, the Hongkong Jockey Club have decided to run a Special Cash Sweep on the Picnic Bay Stakes which is to be run at the Seventh Extra Race Meeting to be held on September 22.

Tickets, which are limited to 100,000, will cost $1 each and conditions will be exactly the same as those for the Sweep on the Jockey Stakes.

Should all tickets be taken up, the prizes will be as follows: 1st Prize, $42,500; 2nd Prize, $22,500; 3rd Prize, $5,000. A sum of $10,000 will be divided amongst drivers of unplaced entered ponies (whether starters or not).

Tickets are now on sale at the Jockey Club offices.

One case of diphtheria, three cases of typhoid, two cases of meningitis with one death, three cases of animal rabies and 65 deaths from tuberculosis were reported to the local health authorities last week. On Tuesday there was a clean bill of health in the Colony.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

In my previous article I told you it was difficult to make six no trump unless you had a suit to work with. I really believe I should have said that it is difficult to make even a three no trump contract without such aid. Take for example to-day's hand. It has plenty of high card tricks and South is certainly justified in his opening bid of one no trump, as he holds three and one-half

♠ 7 5 3	♥ 7 5	♦ 4 3	♣ 8 5 4
♠ 10 9 8	♥ 10 8 6	♦ 10 8 7 6	♣ 8 5 4
♠ 6 3	♥ 6 3	♦ 6 3	♣ 6 3
♠ 2	♥ 2	♦ 2	♣ 2
♠ 7 5 3	♥ 7 5	♦ 4 3	♣ 8 5 4
♠ 10 9 8	♥ 10 8 6	♦ 10 8 7 6	♣ 8 5 4
♠ 6 3	♥ 6 3	♦ 6 3	♣ 6 3
♠ 2	♥ 2	♦ 2	♣ 2

primary tricks and no weak doubletons.

North, with an ace and a king, is justified in going to two no trump. But it takes an odd squeeze play to make the contract. However, leave it to the boys at Yale University to find a way to make their contract. It was there that this hand, sent to me by Fred Rodell, was played.

The Play
Against the three no trump contract, West opened the ten of hearts and East went up with the king. Personally, I believe that East should have played low. South won the trick with the ace and cashed the king and queen of spades, learning to his sorrow that the spade suit was not going to break, when East let go a diamond.

The jack of clubs was played and East won the trick with the queen. A heart was returned by East, which South, declarer, won with the queen.

He next led the ten of clubs. West let go the five of diamonds, and East won with the ace. Another heart was returned, and South won with the jack, a diamond being discarded from dummy.

At this point the declarer had five tricks in, and two clubs and a spade set up. He could see that a diamond lead might put West in to cash two heart tricks and set him.

If he were to cash his two clubs, this would set up a club trick for East; but the declarer decided that East was out of hearts, so a club was led. West discarded his jack of diamonds and the trick was won in dummy with the nine.

Another club was cashed, declarer letting go a spade, and West was squeezed. If he let go a spade, the declarer's two spades would be good, so the only thing he could do was to release one of his good hearts, and now all the declarer had to do was to lead a diamond from dummy and play the queen from his own hand.

West won the trick with the ace, cashed his nine of hearts, and was forced to lead a spade to dummy's ace. Declarer won the last trick with the king of diamonds.

Today's Contract Problem

THERE IS NOTHING "JUST AS GOOD AS" ENO'S "FRUIT SALT"

Think about ENO'S "Fruit Salt" for a moment. Ask yourself why it is accepted by the people of every nation as the finest, easiest and most invigorating aid to good health. Perhaps you agree that ENO is everything that is claimed for it. But do you know this from your own personal experience? Have you actually put ENO to the test? Have you proved that it really does make you fitter and healthier, more energetic and clear-headed? Remember you cannot judge ENO by your experiments with other salines.

Buy a bottle of "Fruit Salt" to-day and you will quickly see why there is no substitute for ENO—and why, for your health's sake, you must always resolutely refuse substitutes.

THE WORDS "ENO" AND "FRUIT SALT" ARE REGISTERED TRADE MARKS.

CORRESPONDENCE

Consideration for Others

To the Editor,
Hongkong Telegraph.

Sir,—One often hears quite a lot these days about the lack of manners and consideration shown by people in Hongkong, but the following will show that there are some charming people amongst us.

With two other fellows, I was "Somewhere on Stubbs Road" yesterday and happened to be standing by my shoddy little car when out of the blue a magnificent limousine, complete with chauffeur in uniform, drew up. A beautifully attired and lovely lady, with a most engaging smile and charming voice, said:—"Have you broken down? May I be of any assistance to you?" Perfectly delightful, Mr. Editor, don't you think?

ONE OF THREE.

MARRIED FLIRTS

hour ago a tabloid reporter had telephoned and asked her all sorts of questions. What was she to do or say? She needed Tom's advice, his help.

She halted for an irresolute moment at the drugstore and then went on. No, she would not call Tom better still she would send him a telegram.

"Need your advice something important let me hear from you." She signed it "Gypsy."

She waited until night in a fever of impatience. Well, the answer would come in the morning, she told herself. Every car along the street, every boy on a bicycle, brought her heart into her mouth.

Meantime, in town, a tall blond young man carrying a briefcase rushed into a glassed-in compartment. The neat secretary at the desk looked up.

"Oh, Mr. Weaver. We didn't expect you back until to-morrow."

"I know. I cut it short. Finish earlier than I had expected. Any messages?"

She gave him a neat heap of mail and he ran over it quickly. "No telephone messages, I mean?"

"I haven't taken any. Miss Gray has been using your desk."

"Ah!" The secretary looked up quickly. The monosyllable had a decided sound of annoyance. Already he was out of the door, sprinting down the length of the office—She saw him bending over Vera Gray's desk, in dumb show saw the colloquy. The blond waved head above the blue frock was shaken in a negative gesture.

The neat secretary was interested.

She didn't like Miss Gray. That girl was a caution; she seemed so sweet, but you had a feeling she was one of the sly ones.

"She likes him a little bit too well, if you ask me," murmured the secretary who hadn't been asked but who saw everything that went on in the place. Well, it wasn't any of her business. But wasn't there a telegram that had been lying around yesterday afternoon? Oh, well, Miss Gray must have opened it. It was probably something about one of the accounts.

LOITERING IN BARRACKS

GAOL FOR FORMER CONSTABLE

Caught loitering in Murray Barracks at 3.15 a.m. on Tuesday last, Shu Sang, an employed ex-constable, was fined $250, or three months' hard labour, by Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistrate's Court this morning.

Pte. R. Harmer, of the South Wales Borderers, in evidence, said he took the defendant into custody about 3.15 a.m. on Tuesday, just outside the Barracks in Queen's Road. For about quarter of an hour previous to this, he had seen defendant walking along Queen's Road, and looking into the Officers' Mess. Witness then went to the East side of the Barracks, and from there saw the defendant enter through the Queen's Road entrance. The gate there had been taken away the previous morning for repairs. As defendant saw him, he ran out into Queen's Road. He gave chase and arrested defendant about 60 yards down the road.

Defendant said the complainant was standing at the gate, and when he passed he looked at the complainant, who then came up and seized him.

Detective Sergeant Shepherd said that defendant was an ex-constable, and was dismissed from the Force for being found sleeping on duty. He had been in the Force for three years. The same morning of his arrest, there was a robbery from the Barracks, and a quantity of watches, cameras and money was stolen. Defendant told him he was there watching, while another man was committing the robbery. The total value of the articles stolen was $69.

The engagement is announced between John, elder son of Sir William and Lady Peel, Government House, Hongkong, and Rosemary Mia Minka, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Headhead, Great House, Hambledon, Surrey.

NEW GAS-BOMBS FOR RIOTERS

San Francisco, July 4. In the highly-charged atmosphere following the fighting of yesterday, strong measures are being taken by the authorities to prevent a recrudescence.

It is feared, however, that further violence will result from the longshoremen's refusal to accept the employers' terms and the action of the Industrial Association in attempting forcibly to keep the port open.

In view of the seriousness of yesterday's waterfront battle, the National Guard has been mobilised and ordered to stand by ready for riot duty.

The National Guardsmen are now being armed with a new type of gas, causing acute vomiting. Governor Merriman has issued a warning to the strikers, declaring that he is ready to act immediately to protect State property.

In the meantime, President Roosevelt's Labour Dispute Board, whose efforts so far have proved vain, have called another hurried meeting in an effort to settle the conflict by arbitration.—Reuter.

A Chinese who had been living at 551 Canton Road, died at the Kwong Wah Hospital yesterday after taking a large dose of opium at his home.

Leave to seal Letters of Administration of Walter Morley, late of Winkie Spruit, South Africa, has been granted to Mr. G. G. N. Tinson. The estate was sworn under $17,100.

ARMY OFFICER'S SICKNESS

PROCEEDING HOME SHORTLY

Brigadier Gawain B. Rowan-Hamilton, D.S.O., M.C., the Assistant Adjutant and Q.M.G. in charge of Administration, China Command, is leaving Hongkong on sick leave on July 14 on the P. & O. liner Rajputana. Brigadier Rowan-Hamilton was admitted to Bowen Road Hospital on Saturday last.

After completing three years in command of the 2nd Battalion, The Black Watch, at Colchester, he came to Hongkong in November, 1933, with the rank of Colonel. He was promoted to the rank of Brigadier shortly after his arrival.

He is 40 years of age, and has been in The Black Watch since 1904, being adjutant of the 1st Battalion on mobilisation in the Great War and was wounded in the early fighting. He was also in Gallipoli, and Palestine. He has been G.S.O. 3, 2 and 1, Brigade Major, and D.A.A. and Q.M.G. with the 68th, 24th, 75th, and 7th (Indian) Divisions, 7th Australian and 9th Infantry Brigades, XXI Army Corps and Northern Ireland Staff.
